RUSSIANS DRIVE GERMANS BEYOND WARTHE RIVER AND CAPTURE SEVERAL BORDER TOWNS AUSTRIAN FORCES REPORTED RETREATING

Despite Reports Germans Are Said to Be Sending Troops From the Eastern Frontier to the Western Theatre of War to Compete With the Allied Forces in Belgium and France

GERMANS CONTINUE TRYING TO HACK THEIR WAY THROUGH FRENCH LINES TO THE COAST

No Change in the Political Situation in the Balkans—Agitation Has Been Renewed in Roumania to Join With the Allies—Armenians Have Hope of Freedom From Turkish Rule

London, Nov. 7.—Except for the fall of Tsing Tau, the most significant report from all of the battle fronts today—and the most welcome to the allies—is that the Russians, besides driving the Austrians back in Galicia, have reached the Warthe River in Russian Poland and have established themselves on the East Prussian frontier.

The Russians too are responsible for the report that they have defeated the Germans near Mlawa, in Poland, just across the East Prussian boundary and at Lyck, in East Prussia.

Military observers here say the Russians have followed the retiring Germans at a much faster pace than was anticipated and that if they are in force they may prevent the Germans from taking up their new positions on the Warthe and compel them to fall back to the Silesian border.

Despite all this, reports persist that the Germans are sending westward large numbers of their troops who have been fighting in Poland to oppose the allies in France and Belgium. That they would do this with enormous Russian forces threatening their own and richest territory, military men here say is practically improbable unless the Germans are satisfied a small force can prevent the Russians entering Silesia and East Prussia.

In the West the ding-dong fighting continues. The Belgians, who hold the lines along the coast, are being given a comparative rest after their three months of almost continuous fighting. The Germans still are concentrating around Ypres where they are trying to hack their way through the Anglo-French troops to the coast.

Both sides claim to have made progress here, the Anglo-French forces southeast of the town and the Germans southwest.

Correspondents in the rear of the armies say the fighting has not appreciably lessened and that both sides are using a tremendous weight of artillery in an endeavor to clear the ground for an infantry advance.

Elsewhere along the line the usual attacks and counter attacks have been delivered without material change in the situation.

Things are moving slowly now in the near east so far as is known here. Russia is said to be finding useful allies in the Armenians, who at last see a hope of freedom from Turkish rule.

There is no change in the political situation in the Balkans. It is said, however, that agitation has been renewed in Roumania for the participation of that country in the war on the side of the allies.

The fall of Tsing Tau caused rejoicing here. It is believed that with the surrender of the German fortress the Anglo-Japanese fleet which took part in the siege will be detailed to hunt down German cruisers still at large in the Pacific.

No announcement has been made concerning the amount of booty the allies obtained through the surrender of Tsing Tau, but it is believed the Germans destroyed everything possible before capitulating.

Great Britain is not satisfied that all has been told of the Pacific naval battle and continues to hope that the German cruisers Leipsig and Dresden, which engaged the Glasgow and which have not been reported since the battle, have been damaged.

ACTIVITY IS INCREASING.

French Say German Attack Grows Stronger—Cover Move.

Paris, Nov. 8.—The Germans are showing renewed activity from the Yser to the Moselle, indicating, it is believed here, either their intention to begin another great effort for victory or to conceal the withdrawal of troops to the eastern theatre of war, or perhaps both. The battle around Ypres continues with undiminished fury but the allies continue to take the initiative and the advantage rests with them.

Between Ypres and Dixmude, neither side appears to be making great efforts and no decisive results have been achieved. It is in the direction of Roulers and the Lys that the enemy is operating with all the forces at his disposal, with the object of driving the allies back on Boulogne. The allies now hold the advantage of their center and right wing. In this direction the enemy's extreme positions are at Wytschaete and Messines, facing west.

The struggle in the valley of the Scarpe continues with unabated intensity. The Germans still are making desperate efforts against Arras and at times shells have fallen into the city at the rate of 82 a minute. The Germans, despite repeated attacks, have failed to make any impression on the French lines. French artillery sweeps the plain over which the Germans are obliged to advance, inflicting severe punishment.

The latest German operations in Argonne forest and the plains of the Woevre district are part of a scheme to invest Verdun. This struggle to isolate the great fortress of the Meuse extends over a vast region. The action on the heights east of the river and around St. Mihiel are part of this campaign. The French, however, are fully alive to the importance of the situation there and are taking the offensive with success at several points.

AUSTRIANS SURROUNDED.

Said to be Hemmed in by Russians With Mountain Pass Only Escape.

Rome, Nov. 7.—A dispatch from Petrograd says:

"The Russians have cut off ustrian army from the Germ the Austrians were encircled on ft flank and forced to retreat but Thursday the Russians occupied all the ways of retreat toward Cracow and thus the entire Austrian army was pushed toward the Carpathian mountains, against which they are closely pressed.

"The Austrians' condition is desperate as their only line of retreat lies across the Carpathians which at this time of the year are almost impassable to a million and a half of men with provisions and munition trains and artillery.

"Petrograd is rejoicing over the present decisive victory. Great demonstrations have been held and in all the churches services to celebrate the event have taken place.

"Emperor Nicholas remains at the front."

THINK REPORT A MISTAKE.

Neither State Nor Navy Departments Know of Landing of Marines.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Neither the State Department nor the Navy Department has had any information from any source that American blue jackets were landed at Beirut, but because of persistency of such reports, Secretary Daniels today made inquiry of the commanders of the American cruisers Tennessee and North Carolina.

Both captains had instructions to wait in the Western Mediterranean to protect American interests if necessary. It is possible that at the request of an American consul, blue jackets may have lande dto guard a consulate.

Officials, however, believe a report would have been received had that occurred.

TURKEY NOT PREPARED.

Eager for War But Larder Empty and Soldiers Remain Unpaid.

Rome, Nov. 7.—Dispatches from Constantinople describe the situation there as outwardly much as it was during the Balkan war.

All foreigners except Germans are regarded with suspicion. Germans may be seen everywhere and German money is so plentiful that it often is accepted as though it were Turkish. In cafes and places of amusement the German language constantly is heard. Governing classes appear solemnly

CARRANZA DENIES VERA CRUZ STORY

Troops Not Ordered to Attack American Forces

FEDERALS ARE ACTIVE

Three Generals of Former Federal Army Under Huerta Attack and Capture Tehuacan, Near Where Carranza is Stopping.

Washington, Nov. 7.—The capture of Tehuacan, Mexico, from the Carranza garrison by Generals Higinio Aguilar, Argumedo and Ruiz, formerly Federal commanders, was reported to the State Department today by Consul Canada at Vera Cruz. The message says several hundred were killed and wounded. Tehuacan is 75 miles from Puebla, where Carranza has removed with the members of his cabinet from Mexico City. It is on the line of the Mexican Southern railway.

Other advices to the department said General Villa was still at Aguas Calientes and told of the proclamation of General Gutierrez as provisional president of the southern Republic under the decision of the Aguas Calientes convention. He will take office Tuesday.

During the day Rafael Zubaran, Carranza's confidential agent here, denied that Carranza forces had been ordered to attack American troops at Vera Cruz tomorrow. Disquieting press reports of the intention of the Carranza general outside General Funston's lines to seek the capture of the city have persisted, however, and the War Department is keeping in close touch with the Constitutional force there.

GUTIERREZ BACKS DOWN (?)

Anti-Villa Faction in Mexican Information Bureau Gets Word.

New York, Nov. 7.—Eulalio Gutierrez, recently elected provisional president of Mexico for 20 days by the Aguas Calientes convention, has repudiated his election by the convention and all its acts, according to the Mexican information bureau in this city by the anti-Villa faction. The bureau tonight gave out what purported to be a telegram signed by Gutierrez and other prominent Mexicans.

The telegram said to have been signed also by Gen. Ali. Villareal declared the convention had acted illegally in declaring itself a sovereign power and naming a president. The message re-affirmed allegiance to Carranza.

AWAIT RULING OF THE BRITISH PRIZE COURT

Concerning Copper Cargo Aboard Steamer Kroonland.

United States Officials Much Interested in Decision Because of Bearing It Will Have on Future Shipments of Metal.

Washington, Nov. 7.—United States officials await with more than ordinary interest the ruling of the British prize court at Gibraltar on copper and rubber shipments consigned to Italian firms aboard the American steamer Kroonland, but unloaded at Gibraltar by direction of British authorities before the vessel was allowed today to continue.

A statement given out in London yesterday and again here today by the British embassy declares that Great Britain felt compelled "to stop contraband trade on the copper with Germany through Italy" because it had been learned such shipments actually were intended for German gun and ammunition factories. It was added, however, that shipments made prior to October 29th, when copper was made absolute war contraband would be purchased by the British government. Presumably the Kroonland's copper cargo would fall within this provision.

It is assumed here that the American owners of the Kroonland's copper will be represented at the court, but if they are not the American consul will go before the court as an observer.

If the decision is adverse to American interests a protest may be lodged with the State Department. The ruling is expected to form a precedent which will have an important bearing on all contraband cases arising during the European war.

HARNETT GOES REPUBLICAN

Every Democratic Candidate Except Two Constables Defeated.

Lillingham, N. C., Nov. 7.—The Republicans, for the first time in many years, made a clean sweep of Harnett county in the election Tuesday, defeating every Democratic candidate except two township constables, by majorities ranging from less than 50 to more than 300. The county even went against Congressman H. L. Godwin, a citizen of the county, his vote being 1,484, while his Republican opponent, R. W. Davis, of Southport, received 1,471.

MOUNT OLIVE LAWYER ACCIDENTALLY KILLED

Hon. Z. H. Wilson Loses His Life in Goldsboro.

Died Last Night From Injuries Received in Jumping from Running Board of Automobile—Head Struck Pavement.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Goldsboro, N. C., Nov. 7.—Friends throughout the State and in this city and county especially, will be shocked to learn of the accidental death in this city tonight of Hon. Z. H. Wilson, a prominent attorney of Mount Olive, which occurred as a result of wounds received when he jumped from the running board of an automobile late this afternoon in which, in company with friends, he was taking a pleasure drive around the city sightseeing to pass away the time until 10:30 when he would be able to catch a train for home.

The accident occurred just as the automobile turned the corner on South Center street, leading to the store of H. Weil & Brothers, where Mr. Wilson, during the day, had done some shopping, and as he had explained to companions in the automobile, that he wished to get out at the store. He had opened the door of the machine and was standing on the running board when suddenly, the machine being only a few feet from the store, Mr. Wilson jumped from the car, striking his head against the hard granite pavement, receiving an ugly wound upon the right side of his head, which resulted in his death a few hours later.

Relatives in Mt. Olive were notified of his death, and a large delegation will arrive in this city tonight by automobile to accompany the remains home tomorrow morning when funeral arrangements will be made.

A. C. L. TRAINS 90-91 TO BE DISCONTINUED

Goldsboro, N. C., Nov. 7.—The matter of discontinuing trains 90 and 91, the shoofly between this city and Wilmington, that leaves here at night and arrives here in the morning, was heard in this city by the Corporation Commission this afternoon in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce.

After being carefully discussed, it was decided by the commission to uphold the railroad authorities in discontinuing the trains as follows: That said trains should make connections in this city on Saturday night, making the trip to Wilmington, returning on Monday morning.

AUSTRIA CLAIMS RUSSIA MISTAKEN

Embassy at Washington Says Austrians Are Succeeding.

ALLIES UNSCRUPULOUS

Statement Declares Russians Offer Big Rewards for Capture or Assassination of Austrian Generals —Attempted Murder.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Summarizing dispatches received from Vienna since November, a statement issued tonight by the Austrian embassy declares the Austrian forces which now hold positions in Galicia have successfully defended all Russian assaults. The statement reads:

"In the Weichsel-San Line because of encountering superior Russian forces, first the German left wing at Warsaw and then our army in action near Ivangorod voluntarily withdrew. The withdrawal was accomplished with entire success and without any disorganisation.

"The new grouping of these forces, carrying the retirement established the line through Kutno-Rawa and Radom to the junction of the San and Vistula rivers.

"In Galicia the positions occupied were held at all points despite violent Russian attacks which were repulsed with heavy losses to the attackers.

"In Servia we took strong Servian positions on the San and Drina rivers. Otherwise the situation is not altered.

"In Boania the province has been cleared of the enemy.

"The bombardment of Cataro by the allies continues without success.

"It is characteristic of the unscrupulous conduct of the Russians that a price of 80,000 rubles has been offered for the capture of assassination of the commanders of our army. As a result an attempt was made on the life of one of the commanding generals, which, however, was frustrated."

CLAIM ADVANCE MADE.

Austrians Advance in Face of Wire Entanglements and Heavy Fire.

London, Nov. 7.—An official statement issued in Vienna says:

"In the Southern war theatre, attempts made against the enemy, strongly fortified behind barbed wire entanglements in the district of Compianine and South of Shabats are progressing slowly. The strategically important heights of Misar were captured and 200 prisoners taken.

"We began on the sixth an attack on the position near Kroupani (62 miles Southeast of Belgrade). Details can not yet be published. Yesterday some Servian entrenchments were stormed and 14,000 prisoners, four cannon and six machine guns were taken."

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 7.—Chairman J. W. Bailey, of the constitutional amendments campaign committee, seems about ready to concede the defeat of the amendments, although he still says there is some hope that at least some few of them have gotten through by small majorities. He gave out today a statement of returns in hand from counties to date that shows 40 counties heard from with 23 of them for and 17 against the amendments, but the vote against footing up 16,030 and the vote for the amendments 11,029. It developed, so it was stated by Chairman Victor Bryant, of Durham, that there are some few points on which the commission has not yet agreed and it will be necessary for another meeting to be held before the report is finally adopted and the report in complete form given to the public.

STATES JOIN WAR ON STOCK DISEASE

Co-Operate With Federal Government Officials

MEAT PRICES THE SAME

Word from Chicago Says Disinfection of Union Stock Yards Proceeding Rapidly—Market May Open Before Sixteenth.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Officials of the bureau of animal industry today enlisted the co-operation of state officials in the fight to stamp out the epidemic of foot and mouth disease which has resulted in a cattle quarantine covering ten states. With strict maintenance of the quarantine, immediate destruction of all infected herds and close inspection of all suspected centers, the bureau believes it now has the situation under control.

Practically every shipment of cattle which passed through the Chicago stock yards during the past 60 days is being traced by inspectors and infected herds are being destroyed.

State officials in the states affected by the Federal quarantine have joined the Federal agents in their fight to eradicate the disease. Under the plans of the department, state officials will establish local quarantines in states now cut off from interstate shipment in order to localize the infected territory as narrowly as possible.

Despite the wide area affected by the Federal quarantine, no immediate effect on meat prices to the consumer is looked for. A plentiful supply of dressed meat and of cattle outside of the quarantined states is expected to prevent any considerable rise.

Montana, California, Kansas, Mississippi and Nebraska today took drastic action to protect themselves from infection. Mississippi orders a ten days' quarantine against outside cattle. California ordered rigid rules governing importations. Kansas proclaimed a quarantine against shipments from the East. Montana barred all importations of shipments within the State unless under the supervision of Federal inspectors and Nebraska quarantined animals shipped from Chicago since October 1.

DISINFECTION PROCEEDING.

Work Progressing Rapidly—Market May Open Earlier Than Expected.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—The disinfection of the Union Stock Yards, quarantined for foot and mouth disease, proceeded rapidly today, and it was said the market might be re-opened before November 16th, the date set in the quarantine.

Reports were received today of appearances of the disease in four additional Illinois counties, although packers issued a statement that there would be no occasion for a rise in the retail meat prices, local retailers advanced prices from 1-2 tot 2 cents a pound. They declared it was to keep pace with wholesale advances.

MISSISSIPPI QUARANTINES.

Section Thought to Have Been Infected Closely Examined.

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 7.—A quarantine against cattle coming into Mississippi within the next ten days as a protection against foot an dmouth disease, was established today by Dr. Edward M. Ranck, state veterinarian. Dr. Ranck today inspected cattle at Como, Miss., which it was believed, were infected, but declared them free from the disease. The state live stock sanitary board will meet here Monday.

TO FIGHT AGAINST FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE.

Federal Experts Are Called from North Carolina Territory.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Kinston, N. C., Nov. 7.—J. E. Jennings, one of the four Federal experts of the bureau of animal industry in this State, was today ordered to hold himself in readiness for immediate transfer to the great district infested with the foot and mouth disease.

He does not know to what point he will be sent. It is likely that every veterinarian in the government service will be sent to the danger zone. E. L. Foos, also recently stationed here, has already started for the Middle West.

MILLION DOLLAR FIRE AT KANSAS CITY, MO.

One Third of Great Stock Yards Razed. Damage Million and a Quarter.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 7.—A fire that burned fiercely for several hours early today swept over the Kansas City Stock Yards and destroyed 30 acres of pens, covering one-third of the cattle section of the yards. The loss, at first estimated at three quarters of a million dollars, was a little more than $125,000, according to stock yard officials.

It was believed a cigar stub thrown in hay started the fire.

RICHMOND OVERSUBSCRIBES $500,000 IN 27 MINUTES.

V. C. Chemical Co. Heads List With $100,000 for Cotton Pool Fund.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Richmond, Va., Nov. 7.—The business men of the State of Virginia have subscribed more than her quota, one million dollars, to the cotton loan fund. Richmond's portion of this, a half million dollars, was over subscribed within 27 minutes. The Richmond list was headed by the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co., with $100,000, the largest single subscription, four times as large as the next highest.

ANTI-TRUST LAWS ARE NOT VIOLATED

By the Cotton Loan Fund Plan Says Gregory.

SUCCESS IS ASSURED

Washington, Nov. 7.—No violation of Federal anti-trust laws is threatened by the cotton loan fund plan recently perfected by bankers and members of the Federal Reserve Board, according to an opinion handed down late today by Attorney General Gregory at the request of President Wilson.

Success of the $135,000,000 pool now is believed by Treasury officials to be assured. More than $80,000,000 of the $100,000,000 to be raised among Northern bankers already has been subscribed and practically all of the remainder, it is understood, is promised on condition of the Federal opinion from the Attorney General. New England financiers, it was said, were reluctant to enter the plan until definitely assured that the method of raising the fund would not be construed as unlawful.

Attorney General Gregory's opinion was rendered after a conference with President Wilson. The Treasury Department tonight made public the following correspondence:

Correspondence Published.

"The White House, Nov. 7, 1914.

"My Dear Mr. Attorney General:

"I am sending the enclosed papers, submitted to me by the Secretary of the Treasury, in order to ascertain whether in your opinion the proposed cotton loan fund may be lawfully formed. I know that it is contrary to the practice of the department to give opinions before hand as to the contemplated transactions, and I think that such opinions ought never in ordinary circumstances to be given, but the circumstances created by the European war are most extraordinary and seem to justify extraordinary action. It is for that reason that I venture to ask you to depart in this case from the usual practice of your department.

"It occurs to me that the fund contemplated stands in a class by itself. It is hardly conceivable that such arrangements should become settled practices or furnish precedents which would be followed in the regular course of business or under ordinary conditions. They are as exceptional in their nature as the circumstances they are meant to deal with and can hardly be looked upon as, by possibly even, dangerous precedents. It is for this reason that I feel the more justified in asking for your opinion in the premises.

"Cordially and sincerely yours,

(signed) "WOODROW WILSON."

Gregory's Reply.

"November 7th, 1914.

"Dear Mr. President:

"I have the honor to reply to your request for my opinion as to whether the Federal anti-trust laws (the so-called Sherman Act, the so-called Clayton Act, and the Trade Commission Act) would be violated in any respect by the carrying out of a plan which has been devised for raising and administrating a fund of $135,000,000 to be lent on the security of cotton. A copy of the plan is attached hereto: "Countries which take annually eight million bales of American cotton, more than half the crop, are now engaged in war. Trade between the United States and those countries in some cases virtually has come to a complete stop, and in others has been seriously hindered. Foreign exchange has been badly demoralized. In consequence of these extraordinary conditions it has been impossible to obtain in the usual ways the large amount of cash required to liquidate the indebtedness incurred in the course of raising and marketing the cotton crop.

The Plan Proposed.

"To meet this situation the plan in question has been proposed. It contemplates the making up by a syndicate, composed principally of banks and bankers, of a fund of $135,000,000 to be lent on the security of cotton to borrowers in the cotton growing states, under the direction of a central committee, composed of the individual members of the Federal Reserve Board and various auxiliary committees.

"Nothing in the nature of price fixing, restriction of production, division of territory or control of markets is involved. Loans will be made as freely to buyers of cotton as to producers. The members of the syndicate will be perfectly free to make other loans in any amount, to any persons, and on any lawful terms. Borrowers will be under no restraint whatever, as to the price or the time at which they may sell their cotton. Nor will their free agency in borrowing or in not borrowing as they see fit and from [illegible] see fit in any manner be res[illegible]ed. In short, the plan simply pr[illegible]s the cash which is imperatively [illegible]ed to liquidate the indebtedness [illegible]d in the course of raising and ma[illegible] the cotton crop, but which cannot be obtained from the usual [illegible]s of supply because of the [illegible]ordinary conditions prevailing [illegible] money markets and in the trade of the world.

"The amount of this fund is barely more than 1 per cent of the total outstanding loans and discounts of banking institutions in the United States and is much less than the amount of cash usually employed in marketing the cotton crop. Nor would even this small part of the banking capital of the United States become impounded as a result of the plan, but upon being lent, would return at once into general circulation.

"I am unable to see how such a plan could be thought to fall within the purview of the anti-trust laws.

"Sincerely yours,

(Signed) "T. W. GREGORY,
"Attorney General"

QUIET REIGNS SUPREME ABOUT PRAIRIE CREEK

Effort Will be Made to Resume Work in Mine.

No Hostile Sign Towards Federal Troops Has Been Made by Miners of the District Being Guarded—Preparations.

Prairie Creek, Ark., Nov. 7.—Under the protection of United States troops an effort will be made at once to resume operations of the Bache-Denman Company's mine No. 4. This statement came from reliable sources here today and it is generally believed that Franklin Bache, president of the company, and appointed by the Federal court as receiver, now is in the East making preparations.

This mine was the scene of a battle July 17 between Union miners and guards and non-union employes of the company. At the same time the surface workings, valued at $150,000 were burned.

No signs of hostility to the presence of the United States troops were noticeable.

The Federal grand jourv which was called yesterday at Fort Smith to investigate the Hartford Valley disturbances, adjourned at noon today until November 17. More than a score of witnesses have been examined but no indictments have been voted it was stated.

RUSSIANS DRIVE GERMAN OVER RIVER

confident but the army is declared to be totally unprepared for war. Storehouses are said to be empty and no commissariat exists. Many soldiers still are wearing the old uniforms used in the last previous war and army officers have not all been paid, it is ascertained. There is also a scarcity of ammunition, continued the correspondent, though Germany has poured into Turkey German officers, privates, sailors, arms and ammunition and above all money. It is also said they have sent a submarine to Turkey.

Enver Pasha, minister of war, and General Liman Von Sanders, German commander of the Ottoman army, are the idols of the moment, says the correspondent.

OFFENSIVE MOVE DEVELOPS

Report From Russian General Staff Tells of Advance of Forces.

Petrograd, Nov. 7.—The Russian general staff has issued the following: " On the East Prussian front the Russian troops are developing with success an offensive move in the region of the forest of Rominten and Lyck (East Prussia).

"The German rear guard was dislodged by us from Mlawa on November 4, suffering great losses.

"Beyond the Vistula the enemy continues to fall back. A German column passed through Czenstochowa, Russian Poland, moving west.

Minor engagements have occurred near Warthe and on the road from Andrejew to Mekow near Mersava.

"In Galicia the Austrians in their retreat left behinr them many soldiers ill with cholera at Jaroslau, Przevorsk and villages on the San."

DEFEAT IS AUGMENTED

Fleeing Germans and Austrians Communicate Panic to Reserves.

Rome, Nov. 7.—Official communications received in Rome from the Russian headquarters state that the Austro-German reverses in Galicia and Russian Poland are being augmented daily by the fugitive troops communicating panic to their reserves.

The Austro-German cavalry forces are depicted as being in an especially pitiful condition. A part of this force, it is said, was massacred by the outnumbering cossacks; the remainder being routed and pursued in the utmost confusion.

Austria and Germany had centered about 20,000 of their best cavalry half of which force the Russians maintain, is now lost.

Once the Austrian and German cavalry was disposed of the Russians directed their efforts to cutting off the five armies, into which the Austro-German forces ere divided, from their western base of operations. The Russians forced them to the southward, at the same time inflicting heavy losses.

The Austro-German casualties are said to aggregate over 30,000 men in dead and prisoners. The Russians also claim to have captured 200 cannon.

TOWNS ARE LIGHTLY GUARDED.

Holland Newspaper Men Tell of Conditions in Belgium Under Germans.

Rosendias, Holland, via London, Nov. 7.—A Belgian who crossed the frontier at an unguarded point declares Antwerp and other Belgian totwns are lightly guarded. Every available German, he says, apparently has been sent to the front. Ghent, Bruges, Antwerp, Brussels and Louvain are rapidly filling with wounded, who from their appearance are mostly members of the older lands. On the other hand, trains moving from Germany toward the front are filled with boys of from 17 to 20 years.

Dutch correspondents who, disguised as Flemish citizens, have reached the front, declare the Germans are slowly but surely retreating. They recount that the German division staff on November 2nd moved from Thielt to Ghent 35 kilometers to the east and that the line from Ghent and almost to Brussels was being heavily entrenched until November 4th, when the engineers were hastily called to the front to fill vacancies. It is clear, according to those correspondents that the Germans have been concentrating near Nieuport and Dixmude large forces drawn from the south.

WHERE ARE GERMAN CRUISERS?

That Took Part in Big Battle—Reported Captured by Japs.

Lima, Peru, Nov. 7.—It is reported here that a Japanese squadron cruising along the coast of Peru has captured the German cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau.

Vague rumors of the capture of the cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau have been persistent since October 31st when a dispatch to London from Sidney, N. S. W., said they had been taken after failure of their coal supply.

A Tokio rumor Friday fixed the date of the alleged capture as October 31st, but failed to designate the place.

This obviously was wrong as the engagement in which the British squadron was defeated and in which the Gneisenau and Scharnhorst took part was fought the following day. The last tidings of the cruisers was that after coaling at Valparaiso they put to sea last Wednesday.

The present report in circulation in Lima may be a result of the numerous inquiries sent to South Pacific ports asking information as to the reported capture of the vessels. A Callao dispatch received shortly before the one from Lima made mention of the report of the taking of the German cruisers by the Japanese. Callao is the principal seaport of Peru and probably would be better informed as to the movement on the coast than Lima, which is inland.

Felicitations exchanged by the Japanese and British admiralty over the fall of Tsing Tau made no mention of the capture of the Gneisenau and Scharnhorst.

MEETING OF A. & M. MEN

Name of Organization Selected—Banquet in Near Future.

At a well attended meeting of the alumni and former students of A. & M. college, held in the Bonitz building last evening, the name of the A. & M. Association of New Hanover was adopted for the recently formed organization here composed of A. & M. alumni and former students in and around Wilmington. Mr. H. E. Bonitz, president of the organization, presided over the meeting and Secretary D. W. Seifert kept a record of the proceedings.

A committee composed of Messrs. H. E. Bonitz, J. L. Becton and J. B. Lynch was appointed to draw up a constitution and by-laws for the association. A committee has also been appointed to call on all those in Wilmington who have ever attended the college and get them to join the association. Plans for a banquet are now under way, and it is hoped to have Dr. D. H. Hill, president of the A. & M., present on this occasion. The local representatives to the State Legislature will also be invited to the banquet, which will be held in the near future.

The three prime objects of the association are to induce young men desiring technical education to go to A. & M., to help young graduates secure positions and to promote clean sports and athletics at the college.

POLICEMAN ON THE JOB

Policeman, R. J. Thompson, while walking his beat last night at 11:30 o'clock, discovered a blaze on the second floor of the City Laundry, No. 20 Market street, and turned in an alarm from box 22 which brought the firemen from the Central station in a jiffy. They broke through the glass door and quickly extinguished the fire, which was in a pile of trash. The damage including that to the door was about $15. The cause of the fire was not learned.

The firemen also extinguished yesterday afternoon a small blaze caused presumably by a spark, in a stable in the rear of an unoccupied residence on Fifth street between Grace and walnut owned by Mr. J. W. Plummer.

FUNERAL OF MRS. WILLIAMS.

Services Held from Residence Yesterday Afternoon.

The funeral of Mrs. Martha Elizabeth Williams, who died Saturday morning at her home in Wilmington, was conducted from the residence, No. 724 South Sixth street, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. W. G. Hall, pastor of Southside Baptist church. The services were attended by many friends. The interment was in Bellevue cemetery.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. John Thomas, Frank King, G. P. Holden, J. H. Holton, E. R. Rhue and J. M. Batson.

Burgaw, N. C., Nov. 7.—Pender superiod court convenes here Monday, with Judge O. H. Allen on the bench. The most important case set for trial is that of State against Mrs. Hand, charged with killing her brother, George D. Jordan. The case is likely to be tried at this term.

The Pender county teachers' meeting was held here today with a large attendence. Miss Kelly, assistant superintendent of Johnston county, was present and took part in the meeting.

The farmers' institute at Shelter Neck, in Holly township, Wednesday and Thursday, was a very successful one. It is said the display of canned goods and other farm products was very fine indeed.

BLADEN COUNTY MAN SHOT

Mr. W. E. Hall, of Elizabethtown, Probably Fatally Wounded Accidentally While Hunting.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Elizabethtown, N. C., Nov. 7.—Walter E. Hall, manager of the Postal Telegraph office at this place accidentally shot himself this afternoon about 4 o'clock.

He was out hunting with a party of friends just beyond the town limits, and had shot a bird which fell in a very thick clump of bushes. He laid his gun on a log and went under the bushes after the bird, and coming out caught up his gun, which was a small 20-guage Ithica, by the muzzle and the gun was accidentally discharged, the load entering his right side and passing through liver and right lung. He is in charge of Dr. Liles, of this place, who immediately telegraphed for Dr. J. F. Highsmith, of Fayetteville, who is expected to arrive during the night prepared to perform an operation should one be advisable.

Mr. Hall's wife and two little children left on the afternoon train for a visit to her father, who lives near the Cumberland county line, but she was reached by phone, and arrived by automobile at 4 o'clock.

The physician in charge fears that the wound is fatal, but still has some hope of his recovery.

Mr. Hall is a brother of Mrs. George M. White, of this city, and she will leave on the 5 o'clock Seaboard train this morning for Elizabethtown to be with him.

ATTACHMENT FOR $36,000 AGAINST FISHING VESSELS

Papers Issued by Clerk of Superior Court Harriss Yesterday.

Attachment proceedings against four fishing vessels, owner by the Atlantic Phosphate and Oil Corporation, of New York, for the recovery of $36,360.52, alleged to be due the Atlantic Coast Products company for money loaned and supplies furnished, were started in Superior court late yesterday afternoon. The affidavit in the action was made by Mr. J. F. Bussells, agent for the Carolina Coast Products Company, and attachment was issued by Clerk of Superior Court Harriss.

The four vessels, now in the Wilmington harbor, are the Portland, Nat Strong, Adroit and Lawrence. These vessels have already been libelled in federal court by various persons for an amount said to be in the neighborhood of $20,000. The attachment proceedings started yesterday are made subject to the libel papers already issued. Deputy Sheriff Kelly served the attachment upon United States Deputy Marshall Fennell, in whose custody the vessels have been since the starting of the libel proceedings.

In the attachment proceedings begun yesterday, Mr. D. N. Chadwick gave the required bond of $500. Hon. John D. Bellamy is attorney for the Coast Products Company in the action.

VICTORIA POLICY CHANGED.

"War Time" Prices Will Prevail at Popular Playhouse.

In order to better serve the people of Wilmington, Manager Peiffer, of the Victoria Theatre, announces that, beginning tomorrow, "war time" prices will be in vogue at this popular playhouse. These prices have been adopted to meet present conditions and to give the pocketbook of every patron a chance.

Manager Peiffer, who understands the vaudeville game and who believes always in keeping amusement within reach of everyone, has decided beginning with this week to place all seats in the large handsome parquet of the Victoria at 15 cents, while the balcony will be held at 10 cents. Children will be admitted for 10 cents. Matinee prices, all seats 10c. The reduced prices mean no reduction in the bill and for this week he has three expensive Keith vaudeville acts and two of the latest moving pictures, to say nothing of the orchestra. The bill tomorrow includes Wm. Lake & Co., in a wonderful sketch called "The Modern Svengali"; Ray Hilliard, comedy singing and dancing artist, and clever Josephine Carr, singing comedienne.

NEW COMMANDER FOR CUTTER.

Captain Uberoth Transferred to Seminole—Other Changes.

Captain Uberoth, recently the commanding officer of the revenue cutter Bear, has been transferred to the command of the Seminole, now undergoing repairs near Baltimore, Md. The Seminole is expected to arrive in Wilmington within the next two weeks and during the winter will be stationed here on coast patrol duty. The vessel has been completely overhauled and many improvements have been added among these being the installation of two new boilers and new life boats of the non-sinkable type.

Second Lieutenant Wiskart has been transferred from service on the Great Lakes to the Seminole to succeed Lieut. James Piner, who will be stationed at Norfolk. Master of Arms Diamond has been transferred to Key West and will be succeeded by Mr. Nelson.

Gunner Oscar Vinje, of the Seminole, is spending a few days in Wilmington on leave of absence, and told yesterday of the change in the commanding officers on that vessel.

PLAYED TO A TIE.

Tigers and Fort Caswell Elevens Battled Without Scoring.

In a very exciting game of football yesterday at Hilton park, the strong local aggregation known as the Tigers played the hard-fighting 19th company team from Fort Caswell a tie game.

"Dutch" Seifert started for the Tigers, and had he not been forced to retire on account of an injury in the second quarter, the probability is that there would have been a different story to tell.

Both teams put up a fine exhibition, and the large crowd in attendance enjoyed one of the best football contests seen here in some time.

The officials for the game were: Referee, Gillespie, West Point; umpire, Terry, A. & M.; head linesman, Houston, Trinity; timekeeper, Huntington, Davidson.

The two teams expect to play again in the near future.

Meeting of Y. W. C. A. Classes.

The following educational classes of the Y. W. C. A. will meet in the association building tomorrow at the hours named: Millinery, 8 p. m.; china painting, 3 p. m.; stenography, 8 p. m.; business girls' Bible class, 7 p. m.

There is nothing to stick to your stocking, nothing to cause inflammation or rawness, nothing to press on or around the corn. You apply it in 2 seconds. No more knives, razors, scissors or flies, with their blood-poison dangers. Try "GETS-IT" for that corn, callus, wart or bunion.

NEWS OF A WEEK FROM CAPITAL OF ROBESON

Every Day Like Sunday Since the Election.

Mayor and Other Autoists "Pulled" Into Court—Navy Department Recalls Big Guns—Surprise Marriage—Notes.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Nov. 7.—Since the election Tuesday every day has seemed like Sunday here. There has been less discussion of the few little things that happened here and there than the writer ever heard on a similar occasion. Up to last night no one seemed able to tell what the county vote was, except that the amendments were defeated by about 500 majority and that the Democratic majority was about 1,000 or more. Not more than half the normal vote seems to have been polled, the Republicans making no gains in the county.

Two ministers were on the Republican ticket and they both went down in defeat. A great many people think that ministers should not dabble in politics more than to vote, which they have a perfect right to do. It is the general opinion in this section that religion and politics will not mix, any more than oil and water. When men tank up on whiskey and go out working for a minister who is seeking office, as is charged was done in this county, the people take it that something is rotten "up the branch.'

The Mayor "Pulled."

Mayor White and Assistant Recorder E. M. Johnson were before Recorder McLean this week charged with running their cars at night without lights. The mayor submitted and paid $4.95 costs. Mr. Johnson fought the case and was discharged. Dr. McPhaul was tried at the same session for leaving his car in a leaking condition on a paved street. The recorder said "judgment suspended on payment of cost," $4.95, but the doctor said he would go to the Superior court, and let the jury settle it. Something was said about "child's play," and Chief of Police Redfern stated on the stand that the only reason he took action in the dark car cases was that a negro who drives a car around town and has frequently been "pulled" for fast driving, etc., walked up and told him to his face that if the dark car had been his he would have been on the way to jail. Recorder McLean said that the mayor and aldermen made the laws and employed men to see that the laws were enforced, and as he understood it, the laws applied to all men alike.

A Surprise Marriage.

Mr. Ben G. Floyd, a very popular salesman in the department store of L. H. Caldwell, put one over on his friends and others for once this week. Sunday morning he left here on the early train for Charlotte. He imparted to The Star man, very cautiously, that he was going to run over to Maiden and that the trip was not purely a business one. Wednesday morning it was learned that he had returned the night before with his bride. Mr. Floyd boards with his aunt, Mrs. Amanda Pitman. When the young couple came in Tuesday night, they repaired to their room at Mrs. Pitman's so quietly that no one knew more than one person had entered the house, the family having retired. There was surprise unlimited next morning in the dining room when Mr. and Mrs. Floyd walked in for breakfast. No more genteel young man ever resided in Lumberton than Mr. Floyd. The community at large extends to Mrs. Floyd a hearty and sincere welcome. She was Miss Bonnie Taylor, of Maiden.

Big Guns Returned.

Rear Admiral Victor Blue, of the Navy Department, has called on Mayor White for the return of the two one-pound guns which were loaned to the town for ornamental purposes in June of last year. The guns are on their way to the navy yard at Washington, where, it is said, in the order for their return, that they will be overhauled. It is understood they are to be used as a protection against the airships which might stray away from home and try to play over the United States. Lumberton now has no cannon with which to defend herself, even if the whole combined foreign navies should steam up Lumber river.

Rev. Judah Neiman, who became pastor of the Jewish synagogue October 1st, has already become very popular with his congregation, as well as with other Lumberton people. Rev. Mr. Neiman, who is now 29 years old, began Bible study when only four years of age, finished Talmud studies at 15, and began studying Hebrew under the famous Rabbi Isial Donzider, of Alexandria, near the city of Lodge, Russian Poland. He passed successful examinations and was ordained at 22 and came to the United States in 1913.

The Sanitary Laundry, which has been dead for some time, has been overhauled and will be open for business Monday. Messrs. Olmsted and Glenn, who have spent many years in the business, will conduct the laundry and declare they will give as good service as can be had anywhere if the people will only give them the opportunity. In the meantime Wilmington and Charlotte have been washing for Lumberton.

Bladen Baptist Association.

Large numbers of Lumberton people have been attending the Bladen Baptist Association at Bladenboro this week, most of them going down on the morning train and returning on the afternoon train.

The colored Baptists of this county are holding their association at one of the Lumberton churches, and so many came in this morning that many people thought an excursion had come to town.

During this week unusually fine weather has prevailed, this in many cases causing the light vote cast. The voters were taking advantage of the fine weather to gather their crops, and the writer is told that in many sections the cotton is about all gathered. It is doubtful if Robeson ever before had so much baled cotton unsold. Many thousands of bales are waiting for the price to rise.

Presbyterian Meetings Continue.

The protracted meetings which are being conducted in the Lumberton Presbyterian church by Rev. Dr. A. D. McClure, of Wilmington, are being well attended and much interest is being manifested. Three services are held daily, morning, afternoon and night. It was announced last night that the meeting would continue through Tuesday and possibly longer.

Turkeys are beginning to come in, but your correspondent fails to see where the war in the other countries has changed the prices on them, as spring gobblers call for $2 bills while the little hens are offered at $1.50 each. Fortunately there seems to be a big crop of turnips and western meat is still to be had—if the fellow has the price. And a few days ago the writer saw a load of country pork in town. Lumberton has plenty of everything but a hotel and a living cotton market.

Law Firm Dissolves.

The law firm of Lennon & Stacy has been dissolved by mutual consent, and hereafter each will be in business for himself. The firm occupied two rooms in the National Bank building, and for the present Mr. Lennon will occupy one and Mr. Stacy the other. Later Mr. Stacy expects to move to another building and Mr. Lennon will occupy both rooms now used by the two.

The first vaudeville attraction to be seen in the new Lumbee theatre will be presented the first three nights of the coming week. It has been decided to run pictures in both the Lumbee and the Pastime houses during the week The week of the 16th will be taken up at the Lumbee by the "Simple Simon Comedy Company", composed of eight or ten people. This is said to be one of the finest tabloid shows on the road. Popular prices will prevail.

Paper has been posted announcing the coming of "Peg O' My Heart", which is said to be an attraction of exceptional merit. While no date is posted, the show will be here on Friday, November 27th, the day after Thanksgiving.

The removal of electric light poles from Elm street, between First and Sixth, continues. The telephone officials were here this week and it is understood they have about decided to have their poles in the same section removed in a short time without further trouble.

Tax Collections Slow.

To give some idea of what Sheriff Lewis is up against, he drove 13 miles yesterday morning and spent the day waiting on the tax-payers, according to previous advertisment. After waiting until late in the afternoon, he returned without having collected one cent.

An attractive rate is offered by the V. & C. S. to those desiring to spend Thanksgiving in Richmond. Fare for the round trip, including sleeper both ways, will be $9. Parties going will leave here on the night of the 25th and arrive on return trip on the morning of the 27th.

A two weeks' term of Superior court will convene here Monday with Judge C. M. Cooke presiding. The first week is for criminal and the second for civil cases. The criminal docket is said to be light.

Col. W. H. Kinlaw left yesterday morning for Atlanta, where he will spend several days on business.

CORN SHOW AT BOLTON A SPLENDID SUCCESS

Homeseekers From Illinois, Indiana and Ohio Attend.

Dr. B. B. Flowe and Mr. T. E. Brown Address Large Crowds in Attendance—Fine Line of Exhibits Seen.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Whiteville, N. C., Nov. 7.—The first and second days of the first annual corn show in Columbus resulted in even greater achievements than expected by the Bolton Chamber of Commerce, to which body is due a great deal of credit for the splendid success of the show, and the enthusiasm and interest manifested there yesterday bespeaks far greater results for next year's show.

That it will result in immeasurable growth to the town of Bolton and a great development of that section of the county particularly and the county generally, is nothing less than self-evident.

The greater part of Thursday was given to the reception of the homeseekers who came from Illinois, Ohio and Indiana. They were shown over the property of the North Carolina Company, going in automobiles with Mr. F. W. Cornwall, vice president of the company, and his assistants.

Dr. Pratt Lectures.

Thursday night Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt gave a lecture on "Drainage and Good Roads" and intelligently discussed the work recently done at Bolton by his assistant, Mr. J. H. Brett, engineer in charge of the drainage work. Dr. Pratt laid special stress on the fact that the reclaimed lands in Eastern North Carolina are the richest in the United States for the production of corn, and cited numerous instances where from 75 to 100 bushels of corn per acre had been made. He emphasized, too, that drainage and good roads go hand in hand and carefully explained the increased advantages derived from these combined improvements in present day farming. Dr. Pratt, in his remarks, said that the Molton plateau, commonly known as the "Green Swamp," was from 30 to 40 feet above the sea level and the grade of corn grown there, from a recent analysis, would be first, whereas, the grade of corn grown in Illinois and Indiana at the best was only third. He also stated that this grade of corn brought a premium of from 2 to 5 cents above the third grade.

Dr. Flowe Heard.

Yesterday morning Dr. B. B. Flowe, State veterinarian, lectured on "Permanent Prevention of Hog Cholera," and said that the serum, when skillfully handled, would result in immunitization for a period of several years. While at Bolton Dr. Flowe inoculated a herd of pure bred Berkshire hogs, some of the stock belonging to the North Carolina Company.

"Selection of Seed Corn."

Yesterday afternoon Mr. T. E. Brown, director of the Boys' Corn clubs of the State, gave an address on "Selection of Seed Corn," following which the judges of the exhibits passed on the different farm products and fruits, scuppernong wines and pickles, et cetera, and announced the names the prize winners, and the awards will be made today.

The exhibits that were at Bolton, after the corn show closes, will be taken to the New Hanover Corn Show to be held in Wilmington next week, and from comments by the visitors from the North and West yesterday, should bring back the blue ribbon.

"WHAT HAS BECOME OF BUCKNAM PASHA?"

An American Admiral in Chief of Turkish Navy—Cousins in Carolina.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., Nov. 7.—What has become of Bucknam Pasha? Few people know that anyone in North Carolina has any interest in the recent admiral-in-chief of the Turkish navy, and few in the State have ever heard of that notable. His whereabouts just now, when Turkey has renewed her losing war on civilization and Christianity, are unknown. It may be that the grand admiral of the Ottoman fleet has thrown aside his fez and gold lace and shipped before the mast to get out of the country, for his job formerly was notoriously non-lucrative. Bucknam Pasha has cousins in tidewater Carolina, including a former deputy collector of customs.

The Eastern Carolina relatives came from New England a generation or two ago. Bucknam is a Maine down-easter, with an exceedingly adventurous career. He went cabin boy on Great Lakes steamers, was an able-bodied seaman on both oceans, and finally achieved the height of his ambition as a Cramps navigator, piloting newly-launched vessels out upon their trial trips. He took a Turkish third-class cruiser across the Atlantic and through the Mediterranean to the Dardanelles, where she was a great sight for the followers of Mohammed striving hard to become modernized.

The Sultans had for many centuries had an army, as all Europe and much of Asia and Africa knew, but their navies had been one big joke. The ship that Bucknam took over was the "white squadron" of the Turkish navy of modern times. That was only a few years ago, and Bucknam was little more than a boy. He was carried before the Sultan, who was crazy about everything American. "Til make you a commodore," said the Mohammedan admirer of the Stars and Stripes and high priest of the followers of the Prophet. Then old Abdul stroked his beard and thought a minute. "No, by the stars, I'll make you an admiral," he said.

Next day Admiral Bucknam took the navy out for a spin, stopping the cruiser once in a while to allow the two or three second-hand torpedo boats and ancient sloops-of-war to catch up. The Fourth of July came around, and Bucknam had a review of the fleet, hoisted the Stars and Stripes up with the star and crescent, and, there being no band to play the Star Spangled Banner, got his phonograph up on deck for the occasion. Later he had occasion to disarm a fanatic who tried to kill the Sultan because of his friendship for the Christian sailor, and often had to threaten to kill the old heathen himself to get a month's salary and buy paint for the official dingy of the grand admiral's flagship. Now Bucknam Pasha is lost. What did the Germans do the American? is a question of some interest in these parts. Certain it is that American methods are sometimes sneered at by the Kaiser's officers, and as certain that Bucknam Pasha quit his job when the Germans gained control of the Turkish sea forces as well as military, or was unceremoniously kicked out.

NEW COURSE AT TRINITY.

To Train for Lay Religious Teaching and Leadership.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Trinity College, Durham, N. C., Nov. 7.—In view of the noticeably increasing demand for specific organized college courses for training young men and women for lay religious teaching and leadership, a voluntary course of this character recently organized in this institution and now in progress with some thirty students enrolled, is very significant, and so far as your reporter has been able to ascertain, this is the beginning of college work of this kind in this State.

The course is given jointly by the department of biblical literature and the department of education, and concerns itself with the thorough study of the Bible for the purpose of teaching it, of the principles of teaching as applied to the Scriptures, and of the organization, supervision and management of Sunday schools. The purpose of the course is to train teachers, supervisors, and superintendent of religious schools, in the light of the best educational principles, to promote the wise selection and effective use of graded subject matter materials, and to study conditions for class and school efficiency.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Look Years Younger! Use Grandmother's Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur, and Nobody Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, and abundant.

The war in Europe seems to have helped food producers first and manufacturers next. A shirt factory in Reading, Pa., has received an order for 600,000 hospital shirts for the British army. The contract is for $250,000 and it will require 2,000,000 yards of muslin to make up the garments. The market for cotton cloth is improving and that means business for the cotton mills if they start up their machinery.

SHUT UP.

An injunction ought to be taken out against the Republicans for making so much noise over regaining some of the ground they lost in 1912. They did very well, of course, but they never turned the Democratic left nor right nor center. They only "gained ground." On the other hand, the Democrats actually reversed the political rule, and have a good working majority in both the Senate and the House. Do the Republicans think we want the earth and were mean enough to keep them from having even a showing?

All this talk about the election's being a rebuke for the Wilson administration, and a backset for Democracy because of what it has been doing for the people, is windjammer talk. The Wilson administration has been neither rebuked nor its tariff legislation repudiated as the result of the election. If so, the tariff laws and legislation of Republican administrations have been repudiated from far back. For years when the Republicans elected a President and a Congress which legislated for special interests the country saddled them with a Democratic House. However, this year the country was good enough to stand by Wilson and let him have a majority in both Houses. That might be "all there is to it," but it isn't.

The Philadelphia Record, a good and wise and faithful Democratic paper, asserts that "the most foolish thing the Republicans say, or can say, about the election is that it is a repudiation of the Democratic tariff." Furthermore the Record goes back into political history to prove that "the Democrats carry the country almost invariably when the tariff is an issue, and generally lose when other issues are prominent." It is well enough to remember this, and here is the history in the case:

From 1874 to 1892, ten Houses of Representatives were chosen, and the Democrats controlled eight of them. During those years the tariff was the overshadowing issue. Since 1892, until quite recently, the tariff issue was second to the currency issue, and the Democrats were divided on that and regularly beaten.

But in 1910 the tariff again was the dominant issue, and the Democrats carried the elections that year, 1912 and 1914, for after all the racket made by the Republicans, the Democrats are strong in both branches of Congress.

Take the matter a little more in detail. In 1883 the Republicans enacted a tariff law, and in 1884 the Democrats elected the President and the House.

In 1890 the Republicans passed another tariff bill, and immediately thereafter the Democrats elected 236 members of the House and the Republicans elected 88. The Democrats had a majority of 148, which was 60 more than the whole Republican membership. But the Republicans denied that the McKinley tariff had been repudiated. They declared that after the people got used to it they would like it. But, after two years more of the McKinley tariff, the country elected a Democratic House by a majority of 94, and a Democratic President by the assistance of half-a-dozen Republican States.

Then came the division of the Democrats on the currency issue, and the tariff was relegeated to second place, and the Republicans took everything for several years. The Democrats made a tariff in 1894, and the Republicans elected a majority of the House at the ensuing election. The Republicans passed a tariff bill in 1897 and carried the Congressional election in 1898. The currency was still a live issue, and in November, 1898, the McKinley administration had the prestige of a foreign war.

Dissatisfaction with the Dingley tariff was so general, even in the Republican party, that in the national convention of 1908 the Republicans promised to revise it. They revised it in 1909, with so little reduction that the country elected a House of Representatives with a Democratic majority of 66. After experiencing two more years of the Payn-Aldrich tariff the country repudiated it some more by electing a Democratic President and a House containing a Democratic majority of 147.

In 1913 the Democrats passed a tariff law, and in 1914 they reelected a majority of the House of Representatives and gained a few seats in the Senate.

Well may the Record searchingly inquire: "In view of this 30 years' record, what do the Republicans think of Congressional elections as repudiations of tariff laws?"

The people will take particular notice that such special backers of Aldrich as Cannon, Payne, McKinley and other rank standpatters and special interest workers have come back. It is a good thing for the people that the Democrats will continue in control of both houses of Congress and save the people from Republican tariff spoliation. The people are safe. No tariff raid can be made on them.

GETTING RICH RAISING HOGS.

The Star has several times pointed as an example to Brooks, Colquitt and other Georgia counties, on account of the independence and prosperity they have attained by reversing their system of agriculture. They grew all cotton till they got the dry rot. They got enough of it several years ago. They now grow cotton, corn, hay, oats and other general crops, and went into the hog and cattle raising industry as the result of being able to grow forage and grain to feed and fatten them. They found it a paying investment to have cultivated pastures instead of turning their stock loose to roam at large and wear themselves out nibbling and rooting themselves to death.

The Atlanta Constitution says "at least two Georgia counties have found a gold mine in hogs." There are, perhaps, a few others, but in referring to two notable counties in this respect, the Atlanta paper states that Brooks county will sell $2,000,000 in pork this fall and winter and only $1,000,000 in cotton. That statement comes from Quitman, the county seat, and any Georgia county which would buy the pork produced in Brooks would have to sell more than 65,000 bales of cotton to do it. That is about twice as much cotton as the average big cotton county produces, but as they do not produce their own meat while they grow cotton they will have to part with their cotton for meat and bread both.

The principal thing about this is that Brooks county does not have to sell its cotton till it gets ready. It could sell one-half its meat and finance its own cotton crop, but it does not have to do that, as most of the county's farmers are independent because they have been producing corn and meat for several years. For that reason their cotton is not a problem to them.

Colquitt county has not gone quite so far as that, but it followed the example of Brooks and has made such progress that cotton is no longer a problem to the Colquitt people. Colquitt is the county which has just put up a $100,000 packing house and will begin operations November 24th with $200,000 capital to conduct the business. The packing house was put up at Moultrie, the county seat, under promotion by the Moultrie Chamber of Commerce, of which many farmers are members. From a recent report of the chamber we take the following:

"It will make but little difference to Colquitt county or the surrounding counties 12 months from now whether cotton sells at 10 cents or 15 cents, or whether it sells at all, for the Moultrie packing house is absolutely changing this from an all-cotton country to a diversified section. Great prosperity should follow this change. The history of the packing house in the West is that it has paid farmers out of debt in five years, and has made them money lenders instead of money borrowers. It is believed it will do this in less time in this section, since the cost of raising pork in South Georgia, North Florida and Southeast Alabama is just half of what it is in the Far West. The net profit on the hogs to Colquitt farmers will be $375,142, representing 126,853 hogs, which will sell for at least $530,000."

The merchants, bankers and business men of Moultrie and the farmers of Colquitt county put up the packing house so that section could save the profit on its hogs and cattle. Otherwise they would have to ship them away to Chicago and Kansas City. Now they are enabled to get better prices and will save all their fertilizer values while the meats and hides remain a Georgia asset.

It was decided a year ago to put up a packing house in order to get away from the cotton fetish. Even a year in advance it stimulated hog and cattle raising, so that it will have plenty of business just as soon as operations begin.

PROSPERITY IN THE WEST.

It is significant that there is prosperity in the food and meat producing West. "The return of prosperity to Wisconsin," says a Milwaukee dispatch, "is evidenced by the decision of several railroads to make extensions. In this connection, it is notable that these extensions are to towns not now reached by any railroad. It means the development of new sections and better transportation facilities generally for the farming and industrial interests of the State.

The grain growing country is on a boom. The European war created good prices for wheat, corn, cattle, hogs and all kinds of food stuffs. At first the stoppage of ocean transportation caused grain prices to fall, but the farmers knew that the demand would be obliged to be great. They held their crops for higher prices and soon their expectations were realized. Some of them are holding wheat yet, despite the fact that some of the exporters last week were paying as high as $1.22 for wheat.

At any rate, the millions of bushels of wheat grown in the West have caused a flood of money to come there, and with a long war in Europe in prospect, the farmers will plant every available acre in wheat and corn next year. The large corn crop has greatly increased hog and cattle values, and more meat than usual will be produced all over the West. It has improved the dairy interests, and business of all kinds has been stimulated.

One year with another the regions which are self-sustaining are more prosperous than those in the one-crop parts of the country. Land values increase in greater proportion and cities build up more rapidly, especially those which manufacture in order to have a prosperous field in which to sell their products.

We ought to contrast the conditions in the West and consider its large and growing cities in comparison with the one-horse towns in the strictly cotton growing sections of the South. Under these circumstances, what is the use to even urge diversification of the South's agriculture? We ought to be intelligent enough to draw our own conclusions and act accordingly.

TWENTY THOUSAND GET EMPLOYMENT.

Northern industries which shut down to influence voters against Democratic candidates have again started up. The election is over and they failed to intimidate enough voters to elect a Republican Congress so the industries could get back to the fat days of tariff graft.

A Pittsburg dispatch says that "with the uncertainty and stagnation which always precedes elections, swept away, steel mills, blast furnaces and manufacturing plants in the Pittsburg district, employing over 20,000 men, are preparing to resume either full or partial operations within the next ten days. In several instances, employes have been notified that they would shortly be needed in their old places or that they would go to work on full time this week."

The plants shut down for repairs in order to get ready to fill big orders that came in before the election. Many of these orders are from foreign countries and the export business is beginning to increase largely in the Pittsburg district. Much secrecy attends the foreign orders but it is said that several steel and wire mills are working at their full capacity to fill the demands coming on them from abroad.

Now that these tariff seeking industries find that they can't have tariff graft, they have gone to work to "make their own living" like the people have to do.

Colonel Roosevelt claims that his fight in New York was against "political crooks." The large plurality for Charles S. Whitman, regular Republican, probably does not indicate that the people prefer crooks. They differ with the Colonel as to who is a crook and who isn't. His brand on men is not taken seriously as he takes it himself.

There is a quiet but determined militaristic spirit in the United States. The demand for a large navy is growing. The people imagine that some foreign nation may deceive itself into believing it can lick the stuffing out of us.

In view of the fact that the town of Three Fingers voted dry in the election last Tuesday, and that the Tennessee Democrats have elected a prohibition governor named Rye, it is becoming painfully evident that there is nothing in a name—not a drop.

CURRENT COMMENT.

The State needs more money and it will be up to the Legislature to discover some class that can not help themselves on which to place the burden.—Durham Herald.

Iredell County farmers may feel the bad effect of the low price on cotton but they are far from being in a bad condition. All far-sighted farmers have abundant food supplies and if they desire to hold their cotton they can do so. No doubt they are seeding big crops of grain this fall to meet the certain demand next summer.—Statesville Sentinel.

"When an old fashioned Democrat went to vote yesterday he made sure that he voted for every one of the party nominees. He declared that he would vote for a yellow dog on the Democratic ticket rather than for his opponent, for the reason that the dog would always follow the right trail."—Wilmington Star. And, come to think of it, isn't that a pretty sensible reason?—Jacksonville Times-Union.

If it should become necessary to send an army into Mexico there is not any doubt that the United States could recruit 200,000 men, in addition to the regular army and National Guard, with a very short time. It is claimed that already 61,000 men from the United States have applied in Canada for enlistment in the divisions that the Canadians will furnish Great Britain in the European war. If this country can supply that many men for some other nation's war, surely it can easily get several times that many for a war of its own.—Savannah News.

Mr. Francis Deaton returned Tuesday from Lakeview, where he has been surveying real estate. He is preparing a new map of Lakeview. That resort seems to be taking on new life. Lots are being sold and much activity in the building of new cottages is promised for the next few months. It is predicted that the season now about to open will be the most successful in the history of the place. The war in Europe will prevent tourists from going abroad for the next few months at least. The resorts in the South are making a bid for these tourists and will no doubt get many of them.—Sanford Express.

A Simple Way To Beautify Your Hair

Easily Done at Home and at a Trifling Expense.

The hair is like a flower—it must have care and proper nourishment. Just as a plant without air and water withers and dies, so will the hair go if not given proper nutriment. The scalp must be perfectly healthy and free from dandruff, as the scalp is to the hair what good soil is to plants and flowers.

If your hair is not pretty; if it is losing its color, too dry, matted, falling out, or if the scalp itches, you can quickly overcome all of these conditions by using Parisian Sage, which supplies every hair need. It soaks right in to the hair roots, stimulating them and furnishing the nourishment that is needed for the hair to grow not only long and heavy, but fluffy, soft, lustrous and gloriously radiant.

You can get a bottle of this inexpensive yet delightful and helpful hair tonic from R. R. Bellamy, or at any drug or toilet counter. Improvement begins with the very first application—besides stopping the scalp irritation it removes every bit of dandruff. The use of this unequaled hair tonic will surely give your hair new life and beauty.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR SUCCESS OF CORN SHOW

Exhibits Came In At Lively Clip Yesterday.

Much Interest In Big Enterprise Which Begins Tuesday in Murchison Building—Live Stock Exhibit to Be Feature.

Exhibits for the great Corn Show and Agricultural Fair, as well as the Industrial and Fine Arts Exhibition by North Carolina Sorosis this week came in for entry at a lively clip yesterday, and present indications are that the exhibits in every department will be unusually fine and attractive this year, although the management has arranged to take care of everything offered in the shape of an exhibit for each and every department.

Interest in the enterprise is reaching white heat and scores of ladies and gentlemen from the city and country yesterday visited the different booths, rooms and divisions of the show where they found everything in fine order and ready for all the exhibits to be turned in as early Monday morning as possible. There will be ample help in the building tomorrow to receive and suitably arrange and display everything in the various departments.

While the management is assured of a fine lot of exhibits from the different parts of this county and the adjoining counties they want it understood that agriculture, horticulture and vitabe given a place and proper consideration in the awarding of premiums. Such a fair is well calculated to stimulate the farmers in every department of agriculture, horticulture and viticulture and every one who can possibly make an exhibit should do so for the benefit of his neighbor and the wholesome influence it will exercise upon him and all other inhabitants in the rural districts.

In addition to that, such an enterprise is well calculated to bring the town folk and country people into closer and more harmonious relations, one with the other, and in this way make friends and acquaintances, out of strangers in the past.

The North Carolina Sorosis department is being admirably planned and patronized and this will be one of the winning features of the fair. The live stock and swine exhibits, at the corner of Fourth and Princess, will be something unheard of or heretofore known in this section, and yet people who know, state that there is some of as fine stock in this, and the adjoining counties today, as can be found in any other part of the State. The only trouble is that there is not enough of such stock, but with the proper encouragement and examples set a great deal more may reasonably be expected in the future.

The "Made in Wilmington" exhibits this year will be a revelation to many of the people of this section for in this exhibit will be found many things that are being manufactured here at our doors.

This is another idea that Wilmington wants to encourage as much as possible. In other words the fair will speak trumpet tongued to the outside world to what Wilmington, New Hanover and the surrounding counties are producing and can produce in competition with any other part of the country. Such an undertaking richly merits the hearty co-operation and support of every patriotic citizen and good woman in the city of Wilmington, as well as New Hanover and the adjoining counties.

The premium list is a most liberal one and within itself will be quite a stimulus to the corn club boys, as well as other products of the farm, field, factory, forest, orchard, vineyard and garden. These prizes amount to several hundred dollars and no better money could be spent in this or any other community.

Interesting speakers have been secured for the occasion and at this writing looks most propitious for the success of the show next week, which will open in full blast Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock, with the address of welcome by Mayor P. Q. Moore, and the response by Mr. Leslie M. Johnson, of New Hanover county. There will be music every afternoon and evening of a most charming character and Wilmington has a gala week just ahead of her, running through Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Reduced rates have been given over all railroad entering the city and nothing has been left undone to make the fair a great success.

MARKET STREET STORE ENTERED

Place of Mr. H. L. Leonard Robbed at Early Hour Yesterday.

The combined grocery store and meat market of Mr. H. L. Leonard, northeast corner of 11th and Market streets, was entered by an unknown person yesterday morning at 2 o'clock, entrance having been gained by reaching through a door on the 11th street front and lifting a bar that was rather insecurely fastened.

A gentleman passing up Market street at the hour named heard some one in the store and there being no light on the inside, he drew to one side and watched. A little later the burglar came boldly out the door which he had entered, with a small armful of goods, consisting principally of a side of bacon and a picnic ham. Passing down 11th street, the man went behind the store and disappeared. The police station was notified and an investigation was made, but there was no clue to the robber. A small amount of change left in the cash register was taken in addition to the goods.

AUTOMOBILE WAS BURNED.

L. Clayton Grant, Esq., Lost Fine Machine in Brunswick County.

L. Clayton Grant, Esq., of Wilmington, had his automobile burned in Brunswick county about a mile from Navassa yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The machine was a Studebaker 35, seven passenger capacity. It was insured for $700. Mr Grant was accompanied on his trip by Mr. Allen Ewing, of MacMillan's garage. They were running the machine along the cross road between the Georgetown public road and the Fayetteville road when it caught fire.

There was plenty of sand in that vicinity but no water and after making an ineffectual effort to extinguish the flames with the sand, Mr. Grant and Mr. Ewing were compelled to leave the machine to burn. They 'phoned MacMillan's garage and a car was sent to bring them back to the city.

ACTIVITIES AT THE Y. M. C. A.

Work of Association Flourishing Despite Handicaps Incurred Through the Depression.

The Men's meeting committee of the Y. M. C. A. have secured as speaker for the Fellowship meeting this afternoon Dr. J. M. Wells, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. He will take as the subject of his address: "The Young Man for the Twentieth Century." The singing at these meetings has been splendid, so far this fall, and more men are attending each Sunday. Mr. W. T. Murphy will sing a solo during the song service.

This week will be observed by the association as week of prayer for the association movement throughout the world. Plans have been outlined for prayer services in the Senior department and in the several groups in the Boys, division.

The speakers as announced for the Fellowship meeting during the remaining Sundays this month are Rev. J. D. Bundy, pastor of Grace M. E. church, Nov. 15; Rev. F. B. Clausen, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Nov. 22; Rev. W. Marshall Craig, assistant pastor First Baptist church, Nov. 29th.

The report of the work of the association as read before the meeting of the Board of Directors at their regular meeting, by the General Secretary, has many encouraging features in it. Secretary Huntington says that the work has been all that could be expected.

"Reports from all parts of the country," he says, "show many records broken in attendance, notwithstanding the financial depression that is being felt, especially throughout the South, and our association is keeping pace with the others. Never have the young men and boys of the membership been so willing to line up for the volunteer service that the association presents. The religious work in both divisions has taken on splendid life and already surpasses the best records of last year. The men's meetings are well attended and interest is increasing. The Bible study groups are double in number those of last year in the Boys' division, and there are classes for both beginners and mature students in the Senior department. The educational work has had an exceptionally good start. All the classes are well organized and the teachers are experts in their line of work, taking a personal interest in all the students. We are able to accommodate many more pupils, and plans are on foot to reach many more boys that need the work as offered in our school.

The physical department is going fine. New men are lining up daily for the work, which is the best that can be offered by any association in the South. Never did the work of the association in this city have better prospects of fulfilling its mission than at present. The whole executive force is working as a unit and working day and night for the good of the work. Although the cost per month of running the work has been cut down considerably on account of the financial depression, the building has been kept cleaner and the service rendered the members better than during any month previous.

"The membership committee were disappointed in not being able to secure the desired number of members during their campaign, but are determined to win out yet, and have plans on foot to this end. On account of the failure of many to pay dues for the coming year, we face a very serious financial situation, and it will take the support of the membership, the business men and the friends of the work during the coming two or three months to tide us over the present difficulty. The opportunity for service and the great need are before us, and the work will only be limited by the support that is secured from the citizens of the city either as members or contributors to the work. Owing to the failure of many to meet their building pledges in full, we are forced to carry a heavy bonded indebtedness and the interest to be met semi-annually is a great handicap.

"As a member of the religious work committee, I respectfully urge that each one be much in prayer for God's guidance in this day of great possibilities and great needs."

B. & C. OFFICIAL IN CITY

Head of Baltimore Steamer Line Here Yesterday—May Yet Make Wilmington a Port of Call.

Mr. Mason L. Weems Williams, president of the Baltimore & Carolina Steamship Company, operating a line of steamers between Baltimore and Georgetown, S. C., was in the city yesterday conferring with local shippers relative to his company making Wilington a port of call.

Mr. Williams stopped at the Wilmington Hotel and during the day saw a number of big shippers here, discussing with them the proposition of putting a steamer on a run between Wilmington and Baltimore or having the steamers call at this port on their regular runs.

The Baltimore & Carolina Company has been anxious to make Wilmington a port of call for several years now, and the local shippers have been equally anxious to have a line of steamers between this port and Baltimore. However, it has not heretofore been possible to get the proposition on a going basis.

The Wilmington Dock & Storage Company, owners of the terminal property formerly used by the Clyde Line, have recently been making an effort to get the Baltimore & Carolina people to make Wilmington a port of call and to use their docks and warehouses.

An official of the company, when seen yesterday, stated that the negotiations with the B. & C. Company are still pending, and admitted that Mr. Williams' visit to Wilmington was in connection with the proposition. Further than this, it was stated, nothing could be definitely stated at the present time.

CONDUCT HIS LAST MEETINGS THIS AFTERNOON AND EVENING

The last meetings to be held by Evangelist Carlyle B. Haynes, the Seventh-day Adventist minister, writer and lecturer, before going to Florida for an extended evangelistic campaign, will be held this afternoon and tonight.

This morning Mr. Haynes will hold a baptismal service at Greenfield Lake at 10 o'clock, at which time he will immerse some of the converts gained at his services.

This afternoon at 3:30 o'clock the evangelist will deliver an address at the Victoria theatre on the Sabbath question, taking as his subject, "Who Changed the Sabbath?" This will be a discussion of the historical aspects of the much discussed question of the Sabbath, and Mr. Haynes promises to give the entire history of the transference of the Sabbath from the seventh to the first day of the week, and the reasons therefore.

Tonight Mr. Haynes will deliver his last address in the city of Wilmington. He will speak at the Junior Order Hall on South Front Street on the subject of "The New Testament Sabbath."

Announcement was made yesterday at the regular Sabbath services of the Seventh-day Adventist Church which Mr. Haynes has established here, and which meets in the Junior Order Hall preparatory to erecting its own place of worship, that Rev. Walter L. Adkinds had been elected pastor of the church to carry forward the work begun here by Mr. Haynes.

Arrangements have been completed for Mr. Adkins, who has been associated with Mr. Haynes during his evangelistic work here, to direct a systematic and well-organized series of meetings in all sections of the city during the winter months. In this work he will be assisted by the three ministers of the Advent Christian denomination who have changed their faith and become members of the Seventh-day Adventist church under the preaching of Mr. Haynes, Rev. J. H. Hollis, formerly pastor of the Fourth Street Advent Christian church of this city, Rev. James E. Smith, formerly pastor of the Brunswick, Ga., Advent Christian church, and Rev. J. B. Gaskill of this city. Assistance will also be rendered in this movement by Mr. J. C. McKoy, formerly one of the elders of the Immanuel Presbyterian church of this city, who has recently resigned his office there to unite with the Seventh-day Adventists.

Under the direction of Evangelist Adkins cottage meetings and Bible studies are already being held every night in the week in different places in the city and plans are being laid to largely increase their number and attendance in the very near future. Regular Sunday night services for the public will be continued through the winter at Junior Order Hall on South Front street, and the regular Sabbath services of the church will also be held there, Sabbath school at 9:45 o'clock, and preaching service at 11 o'clock every Saturday morning.

BELOVED PHYSICIAN DEAD

Dr. A. D. McDonald Passed Away at Home in Wilmington Yesterday Morning—Funeral Today.

Dr. Alexander Donaldson McDonald, one of the best known and most loved physicians in Wilmington, passed away at his home, No. 313 North Fourth street, yesterday morning at 6 o'clock after five years of declining health. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock from St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, of which the deceased was for many years a faithful member. The services will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. Dr. A. D. McClure, assisted by Rev. Dr. J. M. Wells.

Hundreds of friends in Wilmington and throughout the State will learn with the deepest regret of the death of Dr. McDonald, who was for more than 40 years a resident of this city. It was his privilege to minister to the sick and the suffering. He did not shirk the responsibilities of life but gave his energies freely and gladly to the service of others. He was an earnest Christian and as long as his health permitted was an energetic worker in the church in which he was for three decades a consecrated elder. Believing that fraternal orders, too, served a great and noble service to men, he took a great interest in these organizations also.

Throughout his life he had to battle with an enfeebled body, but this only made him more determined to meet the hard problems of human existence in a manly and courageous way. He was denied the privilege of serving his country in the war between the states on the field of battle on account of his physical condition, although he volunteered his services at three different times.

Dr. McDonald was in his 83rd year, having been born May 31st, 1832. He was the son of the late Daniel McDonald, of Carthage, Moore county, who was a native of Scotland.

In his early manhood, he obtained the rudiments of an education by diligent study in such schools as were conducted near his home and then taught school for several years. He continued his education at Baltimore, Md., and later graduated from the Baltimore School of Physicians and Surgeons. He then came to Wilmington to practice his profession.

His wife, formerly Miss Mary Powers, of Pender county, died in 1905. Surviving are his adopted daughter, Miss Mary Thompson; a nephew, Mr. Alexander McDonald, of Kinston, and a half-sister, Mrs. Alexander Butler, of Lumberton.

Dr. McDonald was a member of St. John's Lodge of Masons for 32 years and was a member of the Masonic order for a longer time than this, having been admitted into this lodge through a demit from another organization. He was also a member of Stonewall Lodge, Knights of Pythias, and of the Red Men.

The funeral will be conducted from St. Andrew's Presbyterian church this afternoon by the pastor, Rev. Dr. A. D. McClure, assisted by Rev. Dr. J. M. Wells, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. The interment will be in Oakdale cemetery and will be with Masonic honors, the ceremony at the grave being in charge of Mr. J. H. Mitchell, Worshipful Master of St. John's Lodge, No. 1.

The active pall-bearers are selected from the Masonic order and are as follows: Messrs. B. A. Merritt, I. W. Cooper, A. S. Holden, J. F. Post, M. W. Jacobi and Capt. Jas. I. Metts. The following are the honorary pall-bearers: Messrs. W. H. Sprunt, James C. Stewart, J. D. Kelly, Fred Fuchs, J. N. Humphrey, Archie MacRae, Dr. J. C. Wessell and the elders of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church.

Dr. McDonald selected the hymns which he desired sung at his funeral and also requested that these hymns be sung by St. John's choir, which is composed of Messrs. W. R. and A. L. Dosher, W. A. McGirt and W. B. Muse. The hymns are as follows: "Lead Kindly Light"; "Gathering Home"; "Father Whate'er of Earthly Bliss"; "Asleep in Jesus."

As will be seen from official call elsewhere in today's paper, members of the New Hanover Medical Society are called to assemble this afternoon at 4:15 o'clock for the purpose of attending the funeral of Dr. McDonald, who was one of the Society's oldest and most highly esteemed members.

SAYS MATTER IS SETTLED

Councilman Jones Gives Out Statement Relative to Controversy Between Himself and Mayor.

In a statement made public yesterday Councilman Jones, of the Department of Public Safety, is quoted as having said that the controversy between himself and Mayor Moore, relative to the control of the affairs of the police department, has already been settled to the satisfaction of all and that while he would be the last man to take from the Mayor any power vested in that official by law, he will forcibly resist attempts on the part of the city's Chief Executive to go among those under him and dictate the running of the police department.

He is also quoted as having said that there is no conflict between the opinions of City Attorney Bryan and E. S. Martin, Esq., although they are based upon different propositions.

Councilman Jones is also quoted as having said that the department has been run entirely by himself and that the difficulties between himself and Mayor Moore have arisen from remarks made by the Mayor at Council meetings, rather than from any attempt on the Mayor's part to meddle with his work.

After going into a thorough discussion of the points at issue Councilman Jones is quoted further as having said that "I have done all in my power, consistent with self-respect, to work in harmony in the past, and shall endeavor to continue to do the same during the remainder of my term of office."

To the meeting this afternoon, the presidents of all the women's organizations of Durham, the ladies of the Campus Club, an organization of the ladies of the college community, and the senior girls of the Durham high school all were invited. HARVEST MOON FESTIVAL AT FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The advent of autumn was befittingly celebrated last night by a Harvest Moon Festival given by the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church in the church parlors on North Third street. The entertainment was unique in every respect and was enjoyed by a full attendance of members, together with some 25 visitors.

The rooms were appropriately decorated with corn sheaves, pumpkins, hay stacks and Indian tents, while in the west a large harvest moon shed its soft rays over the gathering and numerous stars twinkling in the dome of the building lent enchantment to the scene.

A musical programme rendered by Misses Telford, Thames and Merriman added much to the pleasure of the evening. Delicious chocolate ice cream and cake were served as refreshments.

A business meeting was held prior to the social and was well attended, at which the usual routine of business was transacted.

This society has grown rapidly both in membership and interest in the past few years and much good has been accomplished by the young people who make up its membership. Last night's social is only one of the many ways in which they appeal to the young people of the city, and try to make church work appeal to them.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT OF LINEN AUXILIARY WORK.

An interesting feature of the meeting of the Linen Auxiliary of the James Walker Memorial Hospital Friday morning was the annual report of Mrs. Thomas E. Cooper, the retiring president, giving a resume of the work of this organization during the past year. Following is the report:

"I beg to hand you herewith my report for the year's work.

"Although several names have been taken from our roll during the year, yet our membership has increased from 160 to 175. This is very gratifying, however, we had hoped to have reached the 200 mark at least.

"With only $1 a year per member we are able to give quite a little linen to the hospital, but this does not cover their needs by any means. The hospital has come to depend on us as their chief source of linen supply. While there has been several private donations of linen during the year yet we have carried the burden of the institution in this line. Since November 1913, we have expended $273.71 for various linens and have a surplus of $58.30 in the bank.

"I wish to thank my officers for their able assistance and co-operation during the year: In their strenuous efforts they have been untiring. Particularly do I wish to thank those who gave so generously their time and ability to assisting me in preparing our musicale last December, and also wish to express my thanks and appreciation for the use of St. Andrew's Memorial hall, which made possible our recital, thereby adding $95 to our net receipts for the year.

"As a society we are deeply indebted to the president of the Wilmington Savings and Trust Company for the privilege of holding our meetings in their directors' room; and also to the press for their kindly interest in our work.

"Respectfully submitted,
"MRS. THOS. E. COOPER,
"President."

GREAT INTEREST IN COTTON DAY PROGRAM

Wednesday has been set apart as cotton and educational day at the Corn Show and Industrial Fair to be held in Wilmington this week and this will perhaps be the most interesting day of the entire occasion. One of the features of the exercises beside the regular program will be a charming young lady, of Wilmington, who will be dressed to represent "Queen Cotton." All the ladies in attendance are expected to wear cotton dresses.

The ladies of Sorosis announce that they have sold quite a number of cotton dresses and still have others for sale. They wish to acknowledge with grateful thanks a donation of 75 yards of gingham, made by Mr. J. Walter Williamson, of the Belwill Cotton Mills.

In honor of the event a song entitled "The Gingham Dress," has been revised from an old war song, "The Southern Girl, or The Girl With the Homespun Dress," by Mrs. J. D. Edwards, of this city, who is a talented musician, and who has composed several instrumental musical selections. The song as adapted by her is intended to be sung to the tune of "The Bonnie Blue Flag."

Following are the words of the song as arranged by Mrs. Edwards:

Oh! we all are Southern girls,
And glory in the name,
And boast it with far greater pride
Than glittering wealth or fame.
We envy not the foreign girls
Their robes of beauty rare,
Tho' diamonds grace their snowy necks,
And pearls bedeck their hair.

Chorus.

Hurrah! Hurrah! for the Sunny South, so dear,
Three cheers for the gingham dress
These Southern ladies wear.

The gingham dress is plain I know,
'Twas made by our own hands
'Twill show what Southern girls can do
With yields from Southern lands.
We've sent the products of our land
With prices not too low,
And we will lend a helping hand,
We love the South, you know.

Chorus.

CAPE FEAR FAIR MARSHALS' BALL A BRILLIANT EVENT

Fayetteville, Nov. 7.—The annual Fair Marshals' ball, chief of the social activities attendant on the Cape Fear Fair, was danced Friday evening, and was without doubt the most brilliant affair in a number of years. The decorations—the best in years—the excellent music, and the pleasing figures, made a captivating climax to the week's gaiety. The dance was led by John A. MacLean, Jr., chief ball manager, aided by his assistant managers, William L. Hunter and Terry A. Lyon.

A very pretty figure of the regalia figure was the leading of the figure by two little cupids, these being little Miss Alberta Hale and Master LeRoy Williford. Miss Alberta led the figure on the ladies' side and Master Roy that of the men. Without a single mistake the little tots led their respective lines, executing a pretty heart figure for the presentation of the Chief Marshal's gift. Charles W. Broadfoot, Jr., gracefully presented the Chief Marshal, Dr. T. M. West, with a handsome pair of cuff links as a token of appreciation from his assistant marshals. Dr. West in response made a very happy little speeech.

The music of the Third Regiment Band was very good.

Following were the dancers: Miss Eleanor Huske with Chief Marshal, Dr. T. M. West; Miss Marion Haigh with John A. MacLean, Jr.; Miss Georgia Dixon with Billy Hunter; Miss Helen Slocomb with Terry A. Lyon; Miss May Sedberry with John H. Cook; Miss Mary C. McKay, of Dunn, with Robert Nolley; Miss Helen Dodson with Henry Graves, of Carthage; Miss Camelia London, of Pittsboro, with Murphey Currie; Miss Mamie Garrason with Earl Stewart; Mrs. W. S. C., with Leighton Harrington; Miss Mary Starr Cook with Caldwell Huske; Miss Margaret Jennings with John H. Manning, of Raleigh; Mrs. W. F. George with Stiles S. WEEK OF MUCH SOCIAL ACTIVITY IN DUPLIN

Warsaw, N. C., Nov. 7.—The past week has been one of much social activity here.

Wednesday afternoon the James Kenan chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy met with Mrs. H. F. Pierce at her beautiful home "Emerald Cottage." Besides the regular business of the month, reports of the State convention were interestingly given by the delegates from the local chapter, and Mrs. W. L. Hill, the president, also told of the social pleasures of the convention, which delighted the members after which refreshments consisting of chocolate wafers and salted peanuts were served by the hostess.

Thursday afternoon the Rook Club was delightfully entertained by Miss Sallie Hill. Five tables of progressive rook were enjoyed and when the score was counted at the end of the games James Pierce having made the highest score was awarded the prize—a hand-painted work bag. The booby prize, a living memento, a black cat, was given to Miss Annie Ross Williams. The hostess assisted by Mrs. W. L. Hill served the old, but delightful form of refreshments, syllabub and pound cake.

Friday evening the McIver Literary Society of the Warsaw high school entertained the young men of the town at a Hallowe'en party on the campus of the high school. The grounds and verandas of the school were beautifully decorated with lanterns, black cats, pumpkins, corn and other things pertaining to Hallowe'en, while ghosts and spooks walked everywhere. Mrs. H. F. Pierce, representing the fortune teller, was eagerly sought by the young couples, and her knowledge of the future, together with the fascinating manner in which she played the role was very much enjoyed by those who learned of their happy future. An elegant ice course and cake were served.

Miss Anna Pierce delightfully entertained at bridge Friday evening, and an enjoyable hour was spent by the ladies who were present. After which an elegant refreshment course was served.

Miss Ella Brown entertained three tables at bridge on Thursday afternoon, and an enjoyable hour was passed by the ladies. A dainty salad course was served.

Mesdames A. R. Anderson and S. R. Flowers were hostesses to a number of their friends on Tuesday evening, when they entertained at cards. Three tables of the town people greatly enjoyed the evening, Syllabub, fruit and cakes were the delicious refreshments served by these charming ladies.

Master William Houston Carroll celebrated his fifth birthday on Tuesday afternoon when he entertained about 20 of his small friends on the spacious lawn of Mrs. Carroll's residence. The games dear to the children of his age were enjoyed and his mother served candy, cakes and other things that the children love. He was the recipient of many handsome gifts.

The spirit of Hallowe'en invaded the James Sprunt Institute at Kenansville on Saturday night, and the young ladies of this school proved themselves charming hostesses on the night on which the spooks and goblins are supposed to walk. A number of young people from here attended the party, and all report a delightful time.

DRUGLESS HEALING

You would not take a pill to heal a burn, and no one should think of trying to cure catarrh, or head colds by dosing the stomach.

The sensible way is to medicate the air you breathe with Hyomei. This treatment goes at once to the sore and congested membrane lining the nose, and throat, and makes a rapid and lasting end of distressing catarrh, and similar ailments.

Hyomei is nature's true method of treating all diseases affecting the air passages—you breathe it. The Hyomei complete outfit consists of a neat hard-rubber inhaler, easily carried in the pocket, and a bottle of Hyomei. This is usually sufficient for the ordinary case. Chronic and deep-seated trouble may require a little more of the liquid, in which case you can get an extra bottle of Hyomei at a trifling cost.

Hyomei is sold by druggists everywhere, and R. R. Bellamy guarantees to return the money to any customer who says it did not give satisfaction. If it cures the treatment is inexpensive. If you are not benefited it costs absolutely nothing.

HARVARD OUTCLASSES PRINCETON TIGERS

Crimson Won Annual Game Twenty to Nathing.

New Jersey Collegians Had Little Defensive or Offensive Strength and Made No Approaches at Scoring.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 7.—Harvard crushed Princeton 20 to 0 today in the annual football game.

The Crimson outclassed the Tigers in every department of play. The New Jersey collegians had little offensive or defensive strength and their nearest approach to the Crimson goal line was in the first period, when the Orange and Black secured the ball on a fumble on Harvard's 35-yard line. Even with the ball well in their opponents' territory when all the attacking players were fresh, Princeton was unable to retain this advantage, relinquishing the ball on the first play by a disastrous fumble. Harvard never thereafter was seriously threatened.

Both teams fumbled the ball in the first period and it was not until toward the end of the session that the Crimson machine began to work smoothly.

After numerous exchange of punts, Harvard got the ball on Princeton's 39-yard line after gaining close to 20 yards in three rushes Mahan dropped back to the Tigers' 38-yard line and kicked the first field goal of the game. In the second period much the same tactics were pursued.

Harvard continued the smashing throughout the third quarter and gaining possession of the ball on Princeton's punt to Harvard's 40-yard line, marched up the field again for the final score.

Harvard sent in what was virtually a sub-team in the last quarter and Princeton tried out its much-vaunted attack. The Tigers made their two first downs of the game here, one by rushing and the other on a forward pass. The Crimson substitutes offered a sturdy defense, however, and the game ended with the Orange and Black still near mid-field. The few yards gained in these final minutes of the play represented Princeton's sole successful attack during the entire 60 minutes of the contest.

All told the visiting team made 39 yards and two first downs in 18 rushes, while the victors rushed 82 times for 297 yards and 16 first downs.

Harvard punted 23 times for 744 yards and ran the ball back on Princeton's punts 165 yards. The Tigers kicked 19 times for a total of 648 yards and gained on run-backs 79 yards. The Crimson tried three forward passes without result, while the New Jersey eleven attempted five and gained about 12 yards. Even fumbles were made, Harvard being credited with six and Princeton with five. In penalties 10 yards were imposed upon Harvard and 15 on Princeton.

Clemson, however, forged ahead Quarterback McMillan receiving a punt and dashing through the entire Georgia team for a touchdown. Line plunges and long end runs netted three more touchdowns for Clemson before the game ended.

UNIVERSITY OF MISSISSIPPI DEFEATED TULANE UNIVERSITY

New Orleans, Nov. 7.—The University of Mississippi defeated Tulane here today 20 to 6. Mississippi's first touchdown came in the first quarter as the result of two forward passes. Two others were added in the third quarter, one of them resulting from the interception of an attempted forward pass and a 75 yard run. Tulane scored a touchdown in the third quarter. The last quarter was played in a hard rain.

Ohio State 13, Indiana 3.

Indianapolis, Nov. 7.—Brilliant forward passes that netted two touchdowns enabled Ohio State to win over Indiana today, 13 to 3. At line smashing and punting, Indiana proved superior but could score only a goal from field.

Navy 21, Fordham 0.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 7.—Navy defeated Fordham in a one-sided football contest today, 21 to 0. The Middies' attempts at forward passing and open playing were unsuccessful, the only plays on which they could depend being wide end runs and tackle plunges.

Auburn Defeats Georgia Techs

ALABAMA POLYS. SHOWED GREATER DEFENSIVE POWER THAN THE GEORGIANS.

Atlanta, Nov. 7.—The Alabama Polytechnic Institute (Auburn) defeated the Georgia School of Technology in football here today 14 to 0. Both teams played brilliantly.

Auburn scored her first touch-down in the second period. After repeated short gains by the Auburn backs through Tech's line, Prendergast finally carried the ball over left tackle for a touchdown. Harris kicked an easy goal.

The second and last touchdown of the game was scored during the first part of the fourth period. After recovering a fumbled punt by Hays of Tech on Tech's yard line, Auburn again hurled all her plays against Tech's line. When the ball had been carried to the 10-yard line Hart plunged through Tech's right tackle for a touch down. Louisville kicked goal. Tech lost her best chance to score when Patton fumbled the ball on Auburn's 20-yard line in the first quarter.

Senater was Tech's star both on offense and defense. Auburn's team showed great offensive power. She used her two fullbacks, Hart and Bidz to good advantage. The players on both teams were numbered.

Defeated Swarthmore Ten to Nothing in Hard Fought Game.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 7.—In an evenly matched and hard fought game here today Washington and Lee continued her unbroken string of victories by defeating Swarthmore college, 10 to 0. After two and a half minutes of play Graham secured the ball on the 13 yard line when Shultz blocked Cline's punt, and carried it for a touchdown, Pierotti kicking goal. Late in the last period Donahue secured a goal from a drop kick from the 35 yard line.

SEWANEE WON EASILY FROM UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA

Alabama Was Outplayed, Outgeneraled and Outfought Throughout.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 7.—Out-generaled, outplayed and out-fought throughout the University of Alabama football team was decisively defeated by Sewanee in a loosely played game here this afternoon by a score of 18 to 0. Alabama failed utterly to cope with the Sewanee attack, while its few chances to score were ruined by costly fumbles. Parker was the distinct star of the contest, ripping the Alabama line into shreds by his terrific plunges. Vangranfas did great work for Alabama.

Carolinians Relied Altogether on Straight Football Tactics.

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 7.—Relying on straight football the University of North Carolina here this afternoon ably defeated the Virginia Military Institute 30 to 7.

The outstanding feature was two touchdowns within a minute of play, Bain, of V. M. I., recovering a fumble on the first play of the second quarter and carrying the ball over for a touchdown, while on the following kick off Winston, Carolina, receiving the ball, ran the length of the field for a touchdown.

SOUTH CAROLINA UNIVERSITY DEFEATED WAKE FOREST

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 7.—The University of South Carolina defeated Wake Forest College of North Carolina at football here today, 26 to 0. The home team's success was due largely to its ability to negotiate long forward passes. Stoney and Heyward starred for Carolina and Harris for the visitors.

RING OF THE FISHERMAN

Shows St. Peter Standing in Boat And Casting Nets.

(Indianapolis News)

The ring of the fishermen used by the Pope exclusively to seal documents of the Holy See shows an engraved figure of St. Peter, the first bishop of Rome, standing in a boat and flinging with two hands a net into the sea. In 1809, when the French occupied the city of Rome, Pius VII, then Pope, was ordered by General Radet to surrender the fisherman's ring. The pontiff refused. He feared that by means of the sanction of the ring the French government would be enabled to issue dangerous documents. When finally forced to surrender it the pope altered the engraving or stamp with the view of making it useless to his enemies. This seal thus defaced was forwarded to Paris by the French general in command at Rome. Pius VII, in the absence of the fisherman's ring, made use of an iron seal engraved with the figures of Sts. Peter and Paul and inscribed the words, "Pro Annulo Piscatoris" (in lieu of the fisherman's ring). The fisherman's ring was kept in Paris until Napoleon I was overthrown, when it was returned to the Sovereign Pontiff. The ring is used only to seal briefs. The bulls, more important documents, are stamped with the leaden seal of the ancient parchments.

Tennessee 16; Vanderbilt 14.

COMMODORES PLAYED FIERCELY, AFTER THE SECOND HALF, BUT TO NO AVAIL.

Nashville, Tenn, Nov. 7.—The University of Tennessee football team defeated Vanderbilt here this afternoon, in a fiercely fought game—16 to 14.

The extra score which decided the contest was due to the accurate toe of Carroll, who scored three points on a placement kick for Tennessee in the third quarter.

Tennessee made the first touch down, after four minutes of play, in a forward pass of thirty yards, from May to Carroll. The goal was missed.

Tennessee added another touchdown in the second quarter, and Carroll kicked goal.

From this time Vanderbilt played fiercely. The commodores secured a touchdown in the second quarter, and another in the fourth. Both touchdowns were made by Curry, the last one on a twenty-five yard run through center.

Army Defeated Notre Dame Easily

WESTERNERS HANDLED THE BALL LOOSELY THROUGHOUT THE ENTIRE CONTEST.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 7.—The Army won from Notre Dame today 20 to 7. The Westerners handled the ball loosely throughout the contest.

The Army's initial score came in the first few minutes of play after Goodman received a fumbled punt on Notre Dame's 15-yard line. Four plays netted a touchdown. In the same quarter the Cadets blocked a Notre Dame punt, Benedict falling on the ball over the line for a tally.

Notre Dame flashed a fine offensive drive in the third quarter and rushed the ball 40 yards for a touchdown. The Army scored again in the last quarter. There was much forward passing but neither team made a success of it. Mills' end-play and Pliska's fine work in the back field featured for Notre Dame, while Hodgson, Benedict, Merrill and Butler shone for the Army.

Wash. and Jefferson Downs Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Nov. 7.—Playing a game featured by passes and long kicks Washington and Jefferson defeated the University of Pittsburg on Forbes field today, 13 to 10.

CAROLINA AGGIES PLAY GEORGETOWN TO A TIE

Riddick and Von Brocklin Were Carolina's Stars.

Spectacular Block of a Punt and a Touchdown by Riddick Was All That Saved Farmers From a Defeat.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—North Carolina A. & M. 7; Georgetown 7. Thus ended the annual football struggle between Hegarity's men and the team or Georgetown University at Georgetown field this afternoon.

By a spectacular block of a punt and the seizure of the ball by Riddick who was rushed over Georgetown's goal for a touchdown, four minutes after play began, and the inability of the Georgetown back to punt well ,only, was A. & M. saved from a defeat. With the exception of the first two quarters A. & M. was outplayed. It is true, too, Georgetown outslugged the North Carolinians.

Both sides were guilty of rough playing and Gormley, of Georgetown, was put out of the game for hitting Kelly, Georgetown's star halfback, and was cautioned several times for roughness. Despite Georgetown's outplaying A. & M., it was not until toward the end of the last quarter that Georgetown tied the score and saved itself from defeat. By a series of line plunges in which several of the powerful Georgetown linesmen were brought back of the line to carry the ball Georgetown marched down the field to within 35 yards of A. & M.'s goal. After being held without gains for two downs Georgetown executed a well directed forward pass which was caught almost direct behind A. & M.'s goal. The goal was kicked.

Right here is where A. & M. failed to live up to the record made earlier in the season. Plyer was in an excellent position to intercept the pass but he gave his attention to tackling Kelly as he caught the ball. Apparently Plyer figured the ball would go out of bounds.

The game was played under ideal weather conditions and on a good field. There was only a fair attendance and little enthusiasm. Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Josephus Daniels and several hundred other "Tarheels," resident and visiting in Washington were in the east stands and now and then let out a cheer.

The student body of Georgetown occupied the west stands and kept up a fair amount of noise, which consisted chiefly of college yells and songs.

Georgetown won the toss and chose the south goal to defend. Riddick of the Aggies kicked off to Kelly who caught the ball on Georgetown's 20 yard line. He was stopped in his tracks by Van Brocklin, the little sorrel topped back.

Two attempts at A. & M.'s line failed to gain Georgetown anything and the latter was forced to kick. The quarterback signalled for a punt and as Nork punted one of A. & M.'s men struck the ball, which was poorly punted, and Riddick grabbed it, running 35 yards for a touch down. Riddick kicked goal.

From then until the end of the first quarter the two teams worked up and down the field with first one team and then the other having the advantage. The period ended with the ball on Georgetown's ten yard line.

The second period saw no brilliant work on either side. The fumbling which characterized Georgetown's playing in the first period again was present. Had the Washington institution held on to the ball once they got it into their hands it is more than likely they would have scored at least two touchdowns on the Aggies.

The third period was all Georgetown's. Only by last stand playing on the part of the Aggies in this period was Georgetown prevented from scoring. More fumbles by Georgetown also caused that team losses.

The fourth period was all Georgetown's. It was this period in which Gormley starred. He and Kelly, by a series of line plunges, carried the ball from her own 30 yard line to A. & M.'s 40 yard line. It was after these plunges that the only forward pass completely executed by Georgetown was made.

After kicking the goal Georgetown again rushed the ball down the field from the center to within a few yards of A. & M.'s goal. Here a stand was made by the Aggies and Georgetown tried to place kick. The place went soaring over the top of one of the goal posts and a big sigh of relief escaped the followers of the North Carolinaians, for there was but a minute left to play and it was A. & M.'s ball.

Riddick and VanBrocklin were the stars for North Carolina and Gormley, Kelley and Foley for Georgetown. Mr. Maggoffin of the University of Michigan was referee and gave general satisfaction.

Citadel Defeated Newberry.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 7.—In a fierce struggle Citadel defeated Newberry here today 14 to 13. Citadel played straight football. Newberry used the forward pass brilliantly, completing nine out of 16. Weeks and Sheppard, of Citadel and McLean and R. Baker, of Newberry, divided honors.

MICHIGAN DOWNED "PENNSY" BY A DECISIVE SCORE

Tore to Pieces Every Shred of Pennsylvania's Defense.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 7.—Tearing Pennsylvania's defense to shreds, Michigan won a 34 to 3 football victory today.

Pennsylvania's only score was in the first period. Merrill caught a Michigan punt near his own goal line, dodged a Wolverine end and three times wrenched himself loose from tacklers. He finally was doomed on Michigan's 43 yard line and a moment later Matthews drop kicked a goal from the field.

Maultbech, Cattlett and Murray were the stars on offense. Michigan's line held like steel and Pennsylvania made most of its gains on forward passes and running back punts.

YALE WENT THE LIMIT TO DEFEAT BROWN

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 7.—Yale played below form today and the eleven was forced to extend itself to the limit to defeat Brown 14 to 6. With all the regular Yale backfield except Ainsworth watching the Harvard-Princeton game at Cambridge, the second string backs played loosly.

GOTHAM'S NOVEL SCHOOL BANKS ARE BIG SUCCESS

Youngsters in One School Save $21,000 in One Year—Homicides Nearly Six Times as Common in New York as in London—Boys Kept From Streets—City's Birth Rate and Death Rate Diminishing.

New York, Nov. 7.—As a result of the inquiry into the Savings banks in the public schools by Mayor Mitchell, a fact hitherto unsuspected has been brought to light, that the city school children as a whole constitute a class of pretty thrifty savers. Some time ago the Mayor's approval of savings banks in public schools led to their establishment, more, however, with the idea of seeing how they would work out than in the belief that they would have any great success. That they have been successful however is shown by the unexpectedly large deposits which have already accumulated. While the total savings of the public school children is not now ascertainable, since each school conducts its own bank independently, figures for individual schools show the popularity which the idea has gained among the pupils. At public school No. 14 over half the pupils are depositors and have to their credit in the bank almost $17,000. The first day's deposits in this school's bank amounted to $160.34 and since then every Monday of the school year has seen additional deposits made. Any sum from one cent up is accepted and when any pupil reaches a balance of $5.00 a seporate account in his name is opened with a regular savings bank. Withdrawals can be made at any time, but it is necessary to have the authorization of the parent, there are comparatively few. This is shown by the fact that up to the closing of the school year out of deposits aggregating $21,000 only $4,000 has been withdrawn. These figures apply to the savings, of 1,360 out of 2,500 registered in the schools. According to the figures the girls carry the largest balances and rivalry exists among the class rooms to show the biggest deposits. This savings bank plan has been so successful where it has been tried and is now spreading so rapidly that it is expected before the end of the year every school in the city will have its own bank.

According to statistics just collected here for the past year the chances of meeting death as a result of the act of another in New York are just about six times as great as in London. The figures for this city covering a five-year period shows that it has an average of 5.5 homicides for the years given as compared to nine-tenths of one for London, two for Berlin and three and five-tenths for Paris for each 100,000 of population. These deaths include not only murder but all the deaths inflicted intentionally or unintentionally, accidentally or feloniously. As compared to the whole country New York's homicides are considerably above the average, the figures for the rest of the country being 4.9 per cent. for every 100,000. That the larger cities are more dangerous than the country and that New York's record is good in this classification, considering its size, is shown by the fact that as compared to the general average of the whole country the average number of homicides in 30 large cities was 8.7 per cent. for every 100,000 of population. This average is with one exception the highest on record. In 1907 the average was 8.8. Among the cities Memphis has the highest rate with 68 homicidal deaths for every 100,000 of the population and Reading, Pa., is the lowest with only 1. / Out of 1,477 killed in the cities those in the East had 516, the Central States 433, the Southern States 437 and the Western States 91. When it comes to the consideration of the methods by which these deaths are brought about the figures for the last year are not given. For the three preceding years, however, they show that 52.8 per cent. were caused by firearms, 12.4 per cent. by piercing and cutting instruments and 34.8 per cent. by other means which includes poisoning and clubbing.

Eight-tenths of a cent an hour is the amount which it costs New York to keep its boys off the streets and provide them with suitable recreation centres where they can play baseball, basketball and other games and have the added advantage of warmth and shelter during the winter months. As a result of these figures the city will be asked to appropriate $125,000 for supplies to equip and carry on these recreation centres as the most efficient means of keeping boys from acquiring bad habits after school hours. Since the establishment of this plan the director of physical training for the public schools has reported specific instances of breaking up gangs which raided stores on their neighborhood to obtain money for baseballs, bats, cigarettes and the like.

The boys are now provided with play material at the centers and encouraged to follow a mild cuorse of training which prohibits the use of tobacco. Incorrigible boys as a class have received more benefit than any other, according to the director, and as a result there have been far fewer arrests and a notable decrease in the cases of truancy. How popular these recreation centres have become is indicated by the fact that in one week this year as many as 119,849 children attended them while the average weekly attendance has been extended until it now embraces evening recreation centre which afe utilized by nearly 1,000,000 people

The city's birth rate and death rate are apparently vieing with each other to see which shall show the greatest decrease. The latest figures show that for the last six years the birth rate has been steadily growing smaller, reaching its lowest point last year. The death rate, however, has been decreasing even more rapidly so that today the births exceed the deaths by 11 for each 1,000 of the city's population, or by a total in the neighborhood of 60,000 for the greatest city. While the decrease in the birth rate has caused dissatisfaction in some quarters the much greater decrease in the death rate is considered ever more significant. On a comparative basis New York has the second lowest moriality figures among the cities of the world which have a population of 2,000,000 or more. As compared with other large cities it has also the highest birth rate. In 1880 New York had the lowest birth rate among the representative large cities of the world while todsy it heads the list with 25.15 births for each thousand of population, followed by London with 24.93 and Berlin with 19.61.

In the mortality column the rate for this city, 13.76, exceeds only that of Berlin which is 12.48 per thousand. Among American cities there are a number which show better figures than New York. In the birth rate it stands 17th. Detroit leading with a rate of 33.66. The death rate here, however, is second only to that of Seattle which is 9.37. Some doubt is expressed by experts concerning this figure since they point out that it would mean that the average length of life in the Western city would have to be 119 years and six months.

In order to impress upon the public the necessity of fire prevention work, the officials of New York have hit upon a novel method. This is nothing less than the use of moving pictures. "The Locked Door," is the title of a film which carries a story of love and a thrilling rescue. It was prepared by an inspector of the fire prevention bureau, and Fire Commissioner Adamson appears in the picture. Mayor Mitchell headed a party of city officials who went to the "movies," and he enthusiastically endorsed the production as effective in carrying out its purpose.

LONGACRE.

THE FAYETTEVILLE OF OLD

Interesting Facts From Copy of Semi-Weekly Observer of 1856 Published by E. J. Hale

Very old newspapers, especially those published in one's own immediate territory in the long ago, as reflecting conditions then obtaining, are always most interesting and through the courtesy of Mr. W. C. Smith, of this city, the Star has been privileged to look through and make excorpts from a copy of the semi-weekly Fayetteville Observer of December 15th 1856, some four years before the late War Between the States, the copy having been found by Mr. Smith among some old papers of his father.

The paper was printed Mondays and Thursdays by Edward J. Hale & Son, members of the same family which now conducts the Observer of the upper Cape Fear metropolis. The price for the semi-weekly was $3.00 if paid in advance; $3.50 if paid during the year of subscription and $4.00 after the year had expired. The Observer was also published as a weekly with the same ascending scale of subscription from $2 per year in advance. The publishers of the Observer were at that time extensive dealers in books, according to advertisements of the firm which quoted long lists of medical and law books in a variety of bindings.

The advertisements of that period are perhaps more interesting than the reading matter. J. & T. Waddill advertised negro clothing, blankets, kerseys, hats, shoes, etc., while Messrs. Hale & Son advertised the old familiar Turner's North Carolina almanac for 1857. S. W. Tillinghast offered a stock of everything new in dry goods, Brussels, tapestry and ingrain carpeting, while Dr. Jas. F. Foulkes, corner of Hay and Donaldson streets, opposite the Fayetteville hotel, offered his Spring supply of drugs, medicines, oils, paints and dye-stuffs. G. W. I. Goldston advertised groceries and hardware, wholesale or retail or in exchange for country produce. O. Houston and W. Overby advertised harness, saddlery, bridles whips, collars, etc., while Robt. D. Green, successor to Green & Wear were the watchmakers and jewelers of the time. Significant just at this time was an advertisement of Jas G. Cook that he wanted to buy 5,000 bushels of wheat.

An interesting feature was the advertisement of transportation facilities on the Cape Fear of those times. There is an advertisement headed, "Freighting on the Cape Fear," which describes a meeting of the boat owners on the river between Fayetteville and Wilmington at which it was resolved that from and after January 1, 1856, cash would be required upon delivery of all freights at Wilmington and Fayetteville and that each of the steamboats on and after that date would carry guano from Wilmington to Fayetteville at 10 cents per bag, lime at 25 cents per cask and ground plaster at 30 cents per cask and that a reduction of 20 per cent. from published rates would be charged on all other shipments, cartage and drayage to be paid by the shipper. D. McLaurin was chairman of the meeting and R. M. Orrell, secretary. In the same issue John D. Williams president of the Cape Fear Steamboat Company, advertised the steamer Flora McDonald for sale at her wharf in Wilmington. Another steamer line was conducted by Lutterloh & Co., of which W. P. Elliott was the agent. It was a freight and passenger line and the steamers were the Magnolia, leaving Fayetteville on Monday and Thursday mornings 15 mintues after sunrise, leaving Wilmington Tuesday and Friday mornings. The steamer Rowan, with "a full set of lighters," ran regularly carrying only freight. The Fannie Lutterloh left Fayetteville Tuesday and Friday mornings and Wilmington on Wednesday and Saturday mornings. In spite of the low water at various seasons now, this beforethe-war firm advertised: "The regularity of our boats on all stages of the river, and the dispatch and promptness in delivering goods are too well known to require comment."

The Fayetteville and Wilmington markets quoted bacon at 12 1-2 to 13 cents per pound; cotton 10 3-4 to 11 1-2 according to "quality;" corn 85 to 90 cents per bushel; wheat $1.10 to $1.20; peas, 80 to 85c; flour $5.50 to $7. per barrel; salt $1.50 to $1.60 per sack; lard, 14 to 15c pound. Peach brandy was to be had at 80 to 90 cents; apple brandy 60 to 70c and plain whiskey at 65c. Spirits brought 34 to 35c; yellow dip, $1.95.

Among the educational institutions were the Crain's Creek Academy in Moore county, conducted by Donald McDonald; Clinton Female Institute, H. A. Bizzell, secretary of board of trustees, and the "Goldsboro Female College," William K. Lane, president of the stockholders.

A. A. McKeithan advertised the largest carriage factory in the South at Fayetteville, and among the hotels were the Shemwell House, conducted by P. Shemwell on the east side of Green street, a few doors north of the market house, and the Dobbin House, Powers & Troy proprietors, from which the Western and Southern stages arrived and departed. J. H. Roberts & Co., had just leased the Fayetteville Hotel and were putting it in order.

Public notice is given in the same issue of the opening of the books of public subscription to the capital stock of the Central railroad, from Beaufort harbor, via Kenansville, Clinton, Fayetteville and the West. The books in the counties were in the hands of prominent men of the times including E. W. Fonville, G. J. Ward, J. H. Foy, Robert White, John A. Averitt, Owen Huggins and L. W. Humphrey, of Onslow; Dr. M. F. Arendell, J. F. Bell and L. T. Oglesby, of Carteret; Major Owen R. Kenan, David Reid, Isaac B. Kelly, William E. Hill, William J. Houston and Stephen Graham, of Duplin; Thos. I. Faison, Dr. Thomas Bunting, William McKay, Patrick Murphy, William Faison, J. R. Beaman and Alfred Johnson, of Sampson; Thomas R. Underwood, Randal McDaniel, A. A. McKethan, Edward L. Winslow and John C. Blocker, of Cumberland. The approach of the war perhaps accounted for the failure of the railroad to materialize.

To Cure Catarrh Purify the Blood

Reason it Out, Where Does it Start the Mucus From?

Innumerable catarrh sufferers have cured themselves by purifying their blood with S. S. S. Catarrh often invades the entire system before it chokes the nasal passages. It becomes so chronic and extensive that the stomach, liver, kidneys, bronchial tubes and most of the glands are involved without such serious conditions being realized. Catarrh may be the result of some serious blood trouble of former years, and this is only one of the many peculiar effects of impure blood. Now S. S. S., in its influence upon the mucous surfaces, causes those catarrhal secretions to be changed or converted into a substance easily, quickly, and naturally expelled from the body. It so changes this mucus that it is not the ropy, clogging stuff that plugs the nose, chokes the throat, causes severe bowel trouble, upsets the stomach and contaminates the food just entering the blood. It is often difficult to convince catarrh sufferers that chronic cough, chest pains, gagging, fetid breath and other symptoms are only the local evidence of deep seated trouble. Get a bottle of S. S. S. today and try it. You will get good results, real benefit and soon be aware of a gradual cleaning up and a check to the progress and dangers of catarrh. Avoid substitutes. S. S. S. is prepared only by The Swift Specific Co., 61 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. They conduct a medical department for free advice that is worth while consulting.

PATRIOTIC CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

By DANIEL A. POLING

National Superintendent of Christian Citizenship of the United Society of Christian Endeavor.

The first man over the wall of Peking, when the relief column of the allied nations broke the Boxer siege, was Titus, an American and an active Christian Endeavorer.

Carlton Jencks, who went down with the Maine, was not only an active Christian Endeavorer, but the organizer of several young people's societies on naval vessels, and one of the founders of the Christian Endeavor Sailors' Home in Japan. The Christian Endeavor movement has followed the flag around the world, and today aggressive local societies are found on a score of war vessels and in increasing numbers among the soldiers on shore.

For thirty-three years this organization, which ministers to the youth of all Protestant Evangelical churches, has emphasized loyalty and love of country. Millions of men and women are today intelligent, practical Christian citizens, the constructive reformers of the State, and living as heroically for their country as Jencks died for it, because Christian Endeavor gripped their lives and trained their minds and hearts for the service of God and native land.

That the patriotism of Christian Endeavorers is not narrow, nor unduly martial, is evidenced by the fact that the conferences between representatives of North and South China, which resulted in the establishing of the Chinese Republic, were held in the home of Rev. Edgar S. Little, treasurer of the United Society of Christian Endeavor for China. In every land Christian Endeavor has spoken a ringing message for universal peace. No man has contributed more largely toward the brotherhood of the nations than the founder and president of the World's Christian Endeavor Union, Dr. Francis E. Clark.

The first citizenship superintendent of the United Society of Christian Endeavor was Dr. Samuel B. Capen, who until the time of his death in China while on a world tour in the interests of missions, was one of the most eloquent and honored peace advocates on the North American Continent.

In Brooklyn, N. Y., Christian Endeavor has for years helped build a better citizenship by providing a summer camp for hundreds of poor children. Cleveland erected a score of public drinking-fountains, and iced them until the city's new water plant was completed.

In California the coffee-club idea and the first coffee club originated in the fertile mind of a Christian Endeavorer. To-day in a number of cities of California and Oregon the evil influences of drinking resorts are being counteracted by these coffee clubs, which are in the truest sense of the term "The poor man's club."

In a dozen State penal institutions, and in many city jails and reformatories, Christian Endeavor is helping to reclaim the outcasts of society. The largest Christian Endeavor society in the United States is in the penitentiary at Frankfort, Ky. This society has over 600 members. It is the proud boast of prison workers that no prison Endeavorer, after being pardoned or after having served his term, has ever returned to prison.

The great Chicago Union of Christian Endeavor launched the movement that resulted in the nation-wide closing of the post office on Sunday, and more recently this same union gave to the continent "Go-to-Church-Sunday."

When the moving pictures of an infamous prize fight, between a white man and a black man, threatened to stir the race prejudices of the country and to pollute the minds of the youth, General Secretary Shaw, of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, telegraphed messages of protest to the governors of the several States. As the result of this protest, in less than twenty-four hours the great cities, as well as the smaller towns of the United States, were closed to the fight pictures.

In 1911, the Canton, O., Endeavorers stopped Sunday automobile racing, and then marshalled the moral forces of the city and country to re-elect the law-enforcing sheriff, who was opposed by the united liquor vice interests.

These are a few of the unnumbered illustrations of Christian Endeavor patriotism. Today, wherever a fight is on against political corruptionists and in the interests of good government, in the midst of the conflict will be found strong-bodied, fearless, clean-minded men and women, who have received their training and inspiration for larger service in the Young People's society of the church.

At the present time the United Society of Christian Endeavor is presenting to its more than three million young people two epoch-making campaigns. Both were launched at the Atlantic City International Christian Endeavor Convention in 1911. One has as its motto, "A Saloonless Nation by 1920," the other is the campaign for a continental Good-Citizenship Sunday. In the movement for National Prohibition, the Christian Endeavorers are uniting with all other temperance and general reform organizations that have as their common goal the final solution of the liquor problem. With posters, billboard advertising, window displays, electric signs, kite-flying contests for Juniors and literature distribution, State and city unions are conducting scientific education campaigns against beverage alohol and the saloon.

The Good-citizenship Day movement has, from the beginning received the support of the leaders of public affairs in the United States and Canada. The President of the United States, and representatives from nearly every other department of organized society, have given the plan their enthusiastic endorsement and support. Sunday, October 18, has been designated as Good-Citizenship Sunday for 1914, and the third Sunday in October will be permanently celebrated as Good-Citizenship Sunday.

This article is the eighth and last of a series that have been published this fall, telling of the great work being accomplished by this world-wide society. Copies of the early articles of this series or other information and printed matter about the Christian Endeavor society, can be had by sending a self-addressed envelope, with the request for information, to Secretary Karl Lehmann, 31 Mount Vernon street, Boston, Mass.

BELGIUM

Seven million men, women and children are threatened with imminent starvation—Newspapers.

The population of the United States is 100,000,000.

The Belgian Relief Committee, which began work September 28th, reports contributions amounting to $900,000 on October 30th.

This is ten cents apiece for 3,000,000 of the starving.

The wealth of the United States is computed to be $130,000,000,000.

The word went forth from Prussia;
"We do what war requires,
Before the hosts of Russia
And the slow English shires
Can move, our conquering masses
Shall smite the heart of France.
Our host through Belgium passes
Way for the Prussian lance!

"We would not harm you, Belgium,
Our neighbor and our friend;
But when war comes upon us
We go straight to our end.
Our way lies through your cities,
Your well-tilled fields beside;
Woe to the ill-starred neutral
Would stem the Prussian tide!"

Then up spake little Belgium,
Outnumbered ten to one:
"By the faith of all the nations,
For thus the compacts run,
We give no aid or comfort
To any in this fight.
Your way lies further southward,
Your threatenings despite."

And Belgium, little Belgium,
Upon her faith stood fast:
She murmured not nor wavered
Before the coming blast.
Without a doubt or tremor
She barred the Prussian's way.
Where are her old, famed cities,
Her fruitful farms today?

Where are her best and bravest?
Let Prussian guns reply.
Where are her babes and mothers?
Their turn has come to die.
Their husbands and their fathers
Have paid the last great price;
Their country is a desert;
Lord, will not this suffice?

The bitter cry of Belgium
Dies out upon our shore.
Deep sympathy we give her,
What can we give her more?
Her fame is surely founded:
What would she have but fame?
Long will the world pay tribute
To the glory of her name.

Children of nations yet unborn
Will marvel when they hear
How little Belgium steadfastly
Embraced the Prussian spear:
And when far down the ages
Heroic deeds betide,
Men still will tell with bated breath
How little Belgium died.

And what of the great nation;
Bulwarked by friendly seas,
Whose sons in peace and plenty
Hug close their well-earned ease?
Her fame, linked fast with Belgium's,
Will be: She had no bread
To spare for Belgium stricken,
But she mourned for Belgium dead.

WINTER COURSE FOR THE FARMERS AT THE A. & M.

Preparations Now Under Way — To be Given in January.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

West Raleigh, Nov. 6.—A committee from the faculty is working at the program for the winter course in agriculture for farmers, which is given in January. The course this year will specially emphasize methods and rotations of crops in which the cotton crop does not play so prominent a part. Schemes will be presented by which it is hoped the farmers may raise most of their supplies at home without a loss in revenue arising from not producing so much cotton. Inquiries received at the experiment station about cattle and hogs show a marked increase in a desire to raise more animals.

Several members of the college faculty and experiment station staff have attended the community fairs in Alamance county this week. These purely local shows are doing much in that county and other counties are following the example of Alamance. The representatives from here report that the displays were exceedingly good and the methods of judging distinctly educational.

Capt. J. H. Mason, of Charlotte, who will direct the basket ball team this year as captain, is already having practising games of recruits for the quint this winter. A number of good men are members of the football tossers, but they will not be available until the season is over. Capt. Mason feels that it is none too soon to get a line on the new men. The schedule has not yet been set.

The formation of the Wake county alumni association is another link in the general alumni association of the A. & M. Already there is some agitation for the organization of the State and National alumni association with a paid secretary. The Wake association will have a banquet Friday, Nov. 20, when it is hoped that more definite plans will be taken for the organization of the new associations.

Lesson VII.—Fourth Quarter, For Nov. 15, 1914.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Mark xiv, 53, 54, 66-72—Memory Verses, 71, 72—Golden Text, I Cor. x, 12—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

A few weeks ago we saw in the story of Jesus Christ and Judas Iscariot, God and the devil face to face; now we have the same Lord Jesus in the hands of His enemies and the strange conduct, or, rather, misconduct, of one of His most favored disciples. All who are not saved are lost, but He came to seek and to save the lost. When any lost one is convinced of sin and truly receives the Lord Jesus Christ they become saved ones, and all such are equally saved; no one is more saved than another, for all have the same Saviour and the same salvation. But the experience of such as are saved is very varied, and the rewards will be according to service.

Some follow fully as did Caleb and Joshua, while some follow afar off like Peter in this lesson. Some utterly renounce the world, the flesh and the devil, while some are more or less conformed to this present evil age.

Some have no confidence in self and lean wholly upon the Lord, but others are too often self confident as Peter was when he said, "I will lay down my life for Thy sake" (John xiii, 37).

When the band of soldiers took Jesus and led Him away Peter followed Him afar off, even unto the palace of the high priest, and sat with the servants and warmed himself at the fire (verses 53, 54). The record in John xviii, 15, 16, is that Peter and John both followed Jesus, but John being known to the high priest went into the palace, but Peter stood at the door without until John spoke unto her that kept the door and brought in Peter.

There is growth in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, a blessed experience, of which Peter speaks in the last verse of his second epistle (II Pet. iii, 18). There is also a possibility of a growing departure from the Lord, even in the case of a saved person, and that the saved one enter the kingdom saved as by fire (I Cor. iii, 15; v, 5), but according to the words of the Lord Jesus Himself it is impossible that a saved one should ever perish (John x, 28).

Peter's downward steps as a disciple seem to have been his self confidence and consequent blundering, his following afar instead of fully, his sitting in the company of the servants and warming himself at their fire, followed by his profanity and base denial. Earlier in the record we hear Peter advising the Lord not to speak of suffering, but rather to pity Himself; on which occasion he was told that it was Satan speaking through him and that he savored of men rather than of God (Matt. xvi, 22, 23). On this occasion he was again in the hands of Satan to be sifted, but our Lord had prayed for him (Luke xxii, 31-34). Peter learned by bitter experience something of the wiles of the devil and therefore could write all the more forcefully "Be sober, be vigilant, because your adversary, the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about seeking whom he may devour, whom resist steadfast in the faith" (I Pet. v, 8, 9).

The true Christian life is the "Not I, but Christ," "Not I, but the grace of God" attitude. No confidence in the flesh, but rejoicing in Christ Jesus (Gal. ii, 20; I Cor. xv, 10; Phil. iii, 3). The company of the ungodly is no place for a child of God, and it is not for us to walk or stand or sit with them. We do not need the warmth of their fire, but by meditation on the word of God may have such a fire in us as the disciples had with whom the Lord walked to Emmaus (Ps. i, 1, 2; xxxix, 3; Luke xxiv, 32). Unbelievers have a great many warming up places, such as the theater, the dance, the card table, and too often those who profess to be Christians, and perhaps are, may be found in such company and yet do not hesitate to sing, "Thou, O Christ, art all I want, more than all in Thee I find."

We should be careful to sing the truth as well as speak the truth, for only as we do this is it real worship.

That Peter should be ashamed or afraid to confess Christ before these servants seems pitiful indeed. I judge from his cursing and swearing that he was probably given to profanity before he began to follow Jesus, and this was a sudden outbreak of the old nature which remains in us as long as we stay in these mortal bodies and concerning which we are said to be always delivered unto death (II Cor. iv, 10, 11; Rom. vi, 11). What a look of love and pity and sorrow it must have been that Jesus gave to Peter and which sent him out to weep bitterly, for he was evidently where Jesus could see him (Luke xxii, 61, 62).

It would be well for us if we would always remember that those same eyes are ever upon us, searching us through and through, and live by the well of Him that liveth and seeth me (II Cor. xvi, 9; Gen. xvi, 13, 14, margin). Contrast this same Peter, spirit filled, in the presence of the high priest and the council, bold as a lion (Acts iv, 5-13, 19, 20), and let us be so filled.

Any fear of man is an indication that the Spirit is not for the time being controlling us. The fear of man bringeth a snare, but in the fear of the Lord is strong confidence.

FAMOUS AUTHOR DRAWS VIVID PICTURE OF WAR

Cyrus Townsend Brady Makes it Clear to Boys What Each Battle Means.

"Playing soldier" is still a favorite game. "Being soldier' is not quite so amusing," says Cyrus Townsend Brady, the famous author, in an article on "What War Is—Just One Battle" in the war number of Boys Life, the Boy Scouts' official magazine. It was Dr. Brady's desire to help the boys of America to understand the true nature of war and its consequences. His graphic pen has given a picture startlingly vivid—one that adults will read with as much interest as boys.

War affects first the land or country in which it is carried on; second, the noncombatants who reside there, the women and children; third, the soldiers themselves. Let us consider for a moment a country over which contending armies have already marched or fought and where they are to fight again. It will be a devastated land, cities will be burned, towns depopulated, villages razed, forests cut down, crops destroyed, industries wrecked.

Bringing It Home to Him

Every boy lives in a house; let him think of the results of the explosion of a shell in the center of it. The dwellers are either in flight, or if at home, killed; the explosion has torn the house to pieces, all the furniture and household belongings, the hallowed family treasures that have not been shattered have been destroyed by the resulting fire. If the house has a garden it has been uprooted; the dog is dead, shot or stabbed; the whole place is ruined. If there is a farm attached, the standing crops have been destroyed by being trampled under foot. The trees under which he played have been cut down to make palisades, or to delay movements, or to destroy cover; the limpid brook has become a muddy morass where men and horses have passed. Broken wagons, smashed implements, shattered cars, abandoned cannon abound on all sides. The once smiling land is a desert. And there is death everywhere—dead cattle, dead horses, dead soldiers, dead women, dead children.

How the Innocent Suffer

Before the battle, highways are crowded with people; old men and women, mothers carrying little babies, children clinging to grandsires' hands all fleeing from the army of the enemy. No bands play, there are no brilliant uniforms to be seen, there is nothing to eat, no water to drink, the roads are thick with dust. It is summer and fearfully hot, yet there are clouds in the sky—clouds of smoke from burning buildings, houses, factories towns.

Shells aimed across the valley at the defenders fall short and explode among the fugitives. They make great gaps in the flying crowds, but they close up and press on; they must get out of the valley away from the line of fire of the contending armies at any cost. The dead are thrust aside, the wounded are left to suffer, the weak fall by the way Children are born by the wayside; their wailing mingles with the groaning and clamor while the great mass struggles painfully on.

These are all innocent people. They have done nothing to provoke this. They can do no fighting. They are leaving behind them all that they have gained in a lifetime of toil, and going they know not where, to what sadder fate they cannot tell.

And who are driving them from their homes, who are killing them on the way, not wilfully perhaps, but unavoidably? The soldiers! Truly a pleasant trade. It is the business of the soldier to kill and destroy; that really is his only business, that is what all his training is for; just that and nothing else. Dress-parading is a side issue.

Figures You Can Comprehend

How can I make the boys of America realize the number lost in this comparatively insignificant engagement in modern warfare which hardly has a name? The other day I saw the New York Giants and Boston Braves play ball at the Polo Grounds in New York. The lower grand stand was filled with 20,000 people. That many, and it may be half again as many, men are lying on that field dead or helplessly wounded. Most of my Boy Scouts readers go to church. It is a large congregation that numbers 500. Every regiment has lost that many persons killed and wounded on an average. I am talking of the seriously wounded now. There are always hundreds and even thousands who are cut, bruised, grazed, scratched, sprained, wrenched and otherwise hurt who are not counted. When a boy gets hurt in work or play he knows how helpful is the sympathy and aid of his fellow Scouts, how sweet the care of his mother. Nobody is helping the wounded between the lines. The valley is still swept with fire. It is impossible to go there. The wounded envy the dead. The groans or shrieks or appeals of the wounded are heard above the awful din—and, most horrible of sounds, the screams of wounded horses poor, unwitting victims of the savagery of man.

Back home mothers, wives, sisters, sons and daughters, in heart-breaking tension wait for news from the field. Suppose your father or brother were there!

What Grant Prayed For

"What," asked a woman of the Duke of Wellington, "is more terrible than a great defeat?"

The man who knew most about war in America lies buried on the banks of the Hudson. His tomb bears the wish that was nearest to his heart, "Let us have peace." Why did General Grant, great soldier that he was, make that prayer? Because he knew what war is—what every battle means.

CAT WEIGHS 100 POUNDS.

Wild Specimen of Feline Tribe Caught in Carteret County.

Newbern, N. C., Nov. 6.—W. R. Lewis of the Broad Creek section of Carteret county, claims to be the champion hunter of that section since a few days ago he killed a wild cat weighing more than 100 pounds. Wild cats are pretty scarce around that locality since civilization began to make such inroads on their domain and it is very seldom that one is seen. The critter disposed of by Mr. Lewis had been bothering his pigs and hogs for some time and he had on several occasions lain in wait for him. Last Wednesday he succeeded in getting a shot at the "varmint" with a large calibre gun and ended his career on the first round.

FRIEDMANN'S CLAIMS OFFICIALLY REFUTED

In Report of United States Public Health Service.

His "Cure" for Tuberculosis, Which Aroused Such a Sensation in This Country, Declared to Be "No Good"

Washington, D. C., Nov , 6.—The "cure" for tuberculosis which aroused such a sensation in this country when Dr. F. F. Friedmann, the Berlin physician, came here in the spring of 1913, has just been made the subject of a report by the United States Public Health Service

This remedy was so widely heralded by sensational newspaper notice, that it seems safe to say that there could hardly be a person of adult years in the country who did not hear something about it, or a victim of tuberculosis who did not experience a thrill of hope of speedy and complete cure. The report naturally does not deal with the pitiful and sordid details of the scenes ensuing upon Dr. Friedmann's advent, of the crowds of invalids, many of them penniless battling for a chance to take the treatment, of the greedy exploitation of hopeless cases who happened to have money, and the turning away of those who did not. The report details merely the medical observations made on certain patients, the laboratory studies on the culture used by Dr. Friedmann, and refers to the moral peculiarities of the doctor, only sufficiently to make it clear that it was his own fault that the investigation was not continued longer and upon a greater number of suitable cases.

It is pointed out that the manner in which Dr. Friedmann presented his claims before the Berlin Medical Society made them paramount to a contention that he had discovered at last the sovereign cure for tuberculosis in all its forms, provided of course that the disease had not already progressed beyond all hope of recovery. These claims the report takes up in detail and then draws the deadly parallel between them and the results of the application of the treatment to patients under the observation of the Service doctors. Whereas the claims are based on cases which always seem to get well, or at least to show phenomenal improvement, after one or two injections, the cases which reacted in this manner among the test series were conspicuously few. The report does not commit itself as to whether the improvement noted in these few cases was due to the treatment, or to the stimulus of a great hope, or to unassignable causes which work improvement in some cases of every large series; but it does point out distinctly that if any one perfers the first explanation he must in justice attribute also to the treatment the very distinct and unusual deterioration in the condition of certain other patients which progressed in some of them to a speedy death. Aside from these more serious cases it was shown that about one-fourth of all the cases receiving the treatment developed running sores or abscesses at the place where they were injected, a happening which Dr. Friedmann had admitted to be unfavorable to a cure, but which he claimed to have completely overcome by his method of injecting the material into the veins.

A long series of experiments with the bacteria used by Friedmann is reported, which show that the germ is different from the varieties of tubercle bacilli commonly known at the present time, and that far from making small animals more resistant to tubercular infection, it made the majority of those inoculated more susceptible. The report is therefore in line with other reports coming from scientific sources here and abroad, which have refuted Dr. Friedmann's claims to the discovery of a specific cure for tuberculosis.

WITH THE MAN IN THE STREET

Pawned His Coat for Fish—We do not vouch for the truthfulness of this story but it was told to us the other day and we pass it along for what it is worth. It is alleged by certain friends of a well known official of New Hanover county, who is likewise an enthusiastic fisherman, that he and a friend recently went fishing in Middle Sound. They fished in the sound until it became too tiresome to remain longer and still no fish had been caught. They then fished in the Atlantic Ocean until late in the afternoon and they had only a few fish still.

But the county official had come not only to catch fish but also to eat fish. Naturally chagrinned that he had not been able to catch as many fish as he could eat, he determined to buy a supply. But he had left his money at home and not being as well known in that vicinity as he is in Wilmington, he doubted his ability to purchase them on credit.

And then a happy thought came to him. How would it do to pawn his coat for enough to get a supply of fish for supper? Nothing simpler, thought he, and he went to the home of a fisherman and explained to him that he wanted a "mess" of fish. He told him he had no money but that he would leave his coat. This was satisfactory to the fisherman and so he trudged back in the crisp October air to the camp, minus a good coat, but happy in the thought that he would have all the fish he wanted for supper.

His friends, who are fishermen, say that they can readily understand why a man would sell his coat, even in late autumn, for enough fish to provide a good supper but that they cannot see how in the deuce a good fisherman would ever trade his coat for mullets. That is past their comprehension.

But our friend, the county official, explains it by saying that he had caught only a few cat fish and that a a man had only that kind of fish would do most anything to get some other kind.

The Fashions—When the autumn came we thought we would be treated to a new lot of dresses by the women—and we were. There was talk of reform—and there was. It was said that women's skirts would be larger in circumference—and they are. Nothing was said as to their length—but they are shorter, much shorter. It takes about the same amount of cloth, we judge, to make a dress that it did formerly, and so the world goes on. The poor farmer must keep his cotton although the women could greatly increase the demand by using more cloth in making their dresses. Would the men complain? We rather suspect they would. It may be that this is the reason that the women make their dresses as they do; in fact we rather think that it is.

And the men. What about them, pray? Well, they are just as bad. It takes about half as much cloth to make a stylish suit now as it used to do. Perhaps they got their cue from the women.

The Spirit of Kindness—"Can you put in a short item for me this morning?" came the request from the other end of the phone at 2 o'clock, in the morning along about the time the paper is being "closed up" in order to go to press and make the early mails.

"Sorry, Madame, but we are just closing up the forms and it may be impossible for us to do it. However, I will do the best I can," was the reply of the newspaper fellow, who was just then preparing to go home.

"Oh! I do wish you would, for I promised this morning that I would put in a notice about our church sale and I forgot it. I promised faithfully that I would do it and I would so much appreciate it, if you would put it in somewhere."

Now the newspaper man when he began talking intended to leave that item out until the following day because he knew that the last forms were going to press in a few minutes But he is first, last and all the time a human being and when that appealing voice came to him over the wire; when he pictured in his mind this woman awaking in the late hour of the night and thinking of her neglect and when he realized that she came not to demand but to seek a favor he determined that he would get that item in by all means. And he did.

The Joy of Achievement—From the topmost point of the tall spire of the First Presbyterian church the past week there fluttered in the breezes a tiny white flag. This flag was not the white flag of surrender but on the contrary it represented a victory. It signified that the workmen engaged in painting the tower had succeeded in building all the scaffolding necessary for scaling the highest part of the spire and that thenceforth all would be easy.

It was the concrete emblem of the joy of achievement, which after all constitutes a larger part of the joy of living. Men plow their way through wildernesses and face the gravest dangers, not because they enjoy the hardships, but because they want to get somewhere or want to make some kind of a collection. It is the end and the aim that counts. All the rest is of little consequence.

Optimism—"I tell you I am an optimist and the European war, I believe, will be over within 60 days," remarked a Wilmington man some six weeks ago. "I can't believe that it will continue because I have a feeling in my bones that it is going to stop. Yes sir, I am an optimist and I am glad of it."

The friend to whom he was talking is also an optimist but one of a different kind. He zelieves frankly in taking things at their face value and making the most of them.

"Well, my friend, I am glad that you think that way about it," he said, "and I only wish that I could believe that your position is correct. However, I am quite sure that this war will last for many months and yet I do not think that this is any reason for being despondent.

"I think we have lots to be thankful for and even if conditions in this country were much worse than they are, I would not think that I should, for that reason, get blue over the situation."

"My optimism is of a type that I have heard that a Chicago man has. It is said that he is one of the most optimistic men to be found in business today and because of his constructive ability and his broad vision coupled with this optimism, about which you speak, he has been able to accomplish great things. But it is said also that he carries a time piece in his pocket. He never lets his optimism run away with him. He stays on the ground floor always and makes the best of circumstances as they are and not as they should be."

Getting Poetical—"I see that you are getting to be quite poetical," said he, after reading an effusion in this column. "Well, I like it all right, but why all this sentiment? Why in the name of common sense don't you be a little more practical and discuss things that are worth while?"

We were tempted to remind him that this column is not intended for practical folks. It has no object in view; it is not intended to foster any principle or any set of principles; it simply exists for the purpose of attempting to present a few pictures of life.

Ah, yes, we must plead guilty to being poetical, if it means that we have sympathy for the men and women we meet who have hardships to bear, who have difficult problems to solve, who have troubles to endure, and who through it all are seeking to make the best of things. We meet the passing crowds and frequently forget that each and everyone has his particular difficulty in life, varying it may be in the burden it places upon different ones but always present.

Poetical, yes, even a newspaper man, who daily meets the hard and sordid side of life as well as some of the brighter hues, even he may be poetical. But after all what would life be worth, if it wasn't for the sentiment, for the efforts we are always making to reach the Elysian fields of eternal rest, even though we know that in this life we shall never reach our highest aims.

What, after all, would the world do without its poetry and its sentiment?

In The "Wee Sma" Hours—When the newspaper man trudges home at 3 o'clock in the morning after a hard night's work, he is usually in a meditative frame of mind. And truth to say there is every inducement for him to keep his own company for practically everybody in a city of Wilmington's size is asleep at that hour. Only here and there is there a policeman who walks his beat and wonders why the clock runs so slow. In the business district there is a cafe open here and their but they do not have many visitors at that time of the night.

"And all the air a solemn stillness holds", as quaintly expressed by the poet, exactly described the situation. Added to the stillness has been a beautiful autumn moon the past week which early in the morning seems to dim its rays as if it, too, were minded to rest along with the rest of the world. The pallor of its light added to the solemness and cast a halo of sadness over the scene that brought to mind thoughts of the shortness of life.

Commencing tomorrow the greatest movie week the people of Wilmington have ever had will unfold itself. Of course, the Grand is the joy spot that will be so delightfully responsible for this, and in view of what the Grand is going to offer it can confidently be predicted that all roads will lead Grandward each day the present week. "Every day but 5 cents from now on." That is the slogan of the Grand, the policy to be inaugurated beginning tomorrow and showing how well this policy will be adhered to, why on Tuesday a wonderful Paramount, "The Typhoon," will be presented for 5 cents admission, to all and at any time during the day. That is the most remarkable announcement likely ever made by a moving picture theatre anywhere. As is well known "The Typhoon" is one of the stage's greatest triumphs and it is presented by a Métropolitan cast and given a magnificent scenic production by the Paramount Company. However, the price for this big film—in five big parts, or reels—will be but 5 cents. Indications are that one will have to go early in order to get a seat at the Grand Tuesday.

Wednesday the sixth episode of "The Million Dollar Mystery" will be presented and besides there will be numerous other films, thus affording a giant double bill and all for 5 cents admission.

The show each other day this week is going to be something brilliant and the people of Wilmington should keep a watch for the daily announcement of the programme.

TO PRESENT O. HENRY MEMORIAL TO STATE

State Literary and Historical Society to Meet.

Will Hold Annual Session in Raleigh December 1 and 2—Addresses and Discussions by Notable Men of Letters to Be Heard.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 7.—The annual session of the State Literary and Historical Association is to be held in this city Tuesday and Wednesday, December 1 and 2, according to announcement just made by Secretary R. D. W. Connor, this being the 15th annual session.

A special feature this year will be the presentation to the State of a handsome memorial to William Sidney Porter—O'Henry—American's most famous short story writer, who was a native of Greensboro. The address for this ceremony will be by Dr. C. Alphonso Smith, of the University of Virginia, who was a boyhood friend of O'Henry and is now his authorized biographer. The tablet has just been finished by Lorado Taft, distinguished sculptor of New York. It is to be placed in the department of the historical commission in the new administration building. The formal presentation will be by Dr. Archibald Henderson, of the University of North Carolina, and the acceptance will be by Governor Craig. It was through the efforts of Dr. Henderson, principally, that the funds for the memorial were raised.

The annual address by the president, Dr. Henderson, will be delivered on Tuesday evening, his theme to be "The Literature of North Carolina; Past, Present and Future." There will be an address by Dr. J. Y. Joyner, his theme being "Henry Jerome Stockard, An Appreciation." The award of the Patterson Memorial Cup for best literary effort for the year, will be made on this evening.

Wednesday morning there will be a general discussion of North Carolina Literature, discussions of various phases being led by Dr. Henderson, Stephen B. Weeks, J. M. McConnell, Thomas P. Harrison, Frank C. Brown and Ernest Starr. Also Miss Minnie Leatherman will present the North Carolina Bibliography for the year.

Wednesday morning there will be a general discussion of county history by W. K. Boyd and E. C. Branson; also a conference on how to secure the writing of county histories, with special discussion by W. C. Jackson, Miss Adelaide Fries and T. M. Pittman. Wednesday evening there will be the ceremonies in honor of O'Henry.

There are under way arrangements for a number of social features complimentary to the members of the association.

MOUNT OLIVE PROTESTS

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Mount Olive, N. C., Nov. 7.—A delegation of leading citizens from here went to Goldsboro today for the purpose of protesting to the corporation commission against the discontinuance of Atlantic Coast Line trains 90 and 91 between Goldsboro and Wilmington. If these trains are discontinued, it will mean that people arriving at Goldsboro at night, whose final destination is Wilmington or some point between Goldsboro and Wilmington, must remain over night in Goldsboro, working considerable hardship in some cases.

The Oxford Orphan singing class gave a concert here last night, realizing something near $30 dollars, which was considered very good in view of the fact that there were two shows in the town.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers—Meat Forms Uric Acid.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

AMERICAN MERCHANT MARINE

Washington, D. C., Nov, 6.—The Southern Commercial Congress in advocacy of Alexander Bill, now pending in Congress, providing for the establishment of an American Merchant Marine, prepared the following statement in answer to criticisms that have been advanced against the proposed measure. The announcement from the White House conveys the information that President Wilson favors the enactment into law of the Alexander Bill, and that the Administration will put forth every effort toward that end, when the sixty-fourth Congress convenes.

The Committee on The Merchant Marine of the House of Representatives in its Report of September 8th, 1914, on the Government Ownership and operation of Merchant vessels in the Foreign Trade of the United States, said:

"We shall not discuss the desirability of having an American Merchant Marine. We will assume that there is no difference of opinion on that point."

No one can honestly take issue with that statement of the Committee.

In order to establish an American Merchant Marine, the above Committee, after full deliberation, favorably reported a Bill authorizing the Government, acting through a Shipping Board composed of members of the Cabinet, under the direction of the President, to acquire and operate merchant vessels in the foreign trade of the United States, these vessels also to be available as naval auxiliaries.

There is an idea abroad that this Bill is a war emergency measure. This is not so. In its Report the Committee says:

"The fact that we pay a sum variously estimated to be from $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 annually to vessels under foreign flags to transport our commerce, which seriously affects our balance of trade, is urged as a sufficient reason why we should have a Merchant Marine of our own but this is only one of many reasons."

Long before the beginning of the present war the need for an American Merchant Marine was so keenly felt that the Senate passed a Bill known as the Weekly Bill, which proposed to use naval vessels as a nucleus for an American Merchant Marine.

Objections to the Shipping Bill now before Congress have developed from two sources. It was to be expected that there would be objection by shipping interests which have been reaping the benefit of American inactivity in the foreign shipping trade. It was also to be expected that certain financial interests and their affiliations, especially those interested in foreign shipping, would object to a Government Merchant Marine.

Opponents to the Bill have advanced arguments to sustain their position, but not one of them will stand analysis. Many newspapers and periodicals are opposing the Bill, but the fact that they enjoy considerable advertising and other patronage from the steamship lines and the financial interests that are opposing the Bill, may go far towards explaining their position on this great question of an American Merchant Marine.

1. Opponents to the Bill say that there are a large number of ships at present in American harbors unable to get cargoes, hence there is no need for a Government Merchant Marine.

A recent investigation has proved this not to be true. Ships seek cargoes at all times, but the present chartering market is very firm ;and when the question of foreign credits is settled and Commerce begins to move, as it must very shortly, there will be a pasitial famine in ships, as over 5,000,000, tons of German and Austrain shipping are completely out of commission, to say nothing of the large number of British, French, and Russian merchant ships which have been taken over by their respective governments for transports and naval auxiliaries.

There are, all told, Considerably less than 100 American Ships in the Foreign Trade in the whole world, including all of the ships which have just taken American registry to secure the protection of the flag on account of the war. None of these ships are idle. Therefore, even though there were hundreds of idle ships in every American harbor, it would not alter the necessity for passing the Shipping Bill now before Congress, as all such ships would be foreign ships and the object of this Bill is to establish an American Merchant Marine.

2. Opponents to theBill say that if the Government will not enter the shipping business, private capital will provide an American Merchant Marine.

This is rather inconsistent with their statement that the harbors are full of idle ships, for, if that is true, private capital will find no attraction in the shipping business.

What likelihood is there to obtain private capital for this new business, especially to the amount contemplated by the Shipping Bill, $40,000,000, when long established going concerns find it impossible to obtain money except at heavy rates.

When the city of New York must pay 7 per sent. including bankers' commission, for a loan of $100,000,000, when the State of Tennessee found it most difficult to obtain a loan of $1,400,000, it is quite certain that private capital will be unable to provide an American Merchant Marine, especially as it did nothing in the matter while the opportunity was open during the past 50 years.

3. Opponents to the Bill say that the Government will lose money in this business.

This argument has been their favorite one. The bugaboo of increased taxes; "loss of the initial investment every three years", and much more of the same nature, has been circulated in an effort to defeat the Bill.

"The White Star Line, in 1910, earned a Net Profit of 540,000 Pounds sterling on a capital of 750,000 pounds Sterling, after writing off 370,016 pounds Sterling for depreciation. A dividend of 30 per cent was paid in that year."

The Holland American Line earned about 50 per cent net on its capital during the fiscal year of 1913. The Hamburg-American Line earned about 30 per cent net during its fiscal year of 1913. These are only a few specific instances of steamship line earnings. They are not at all unusual but are the regular thing in the shipping business.

F. E. Dixon & Company, of London, who own and operate a large fleet of "tramp" freighters, showed earnings of about 50 per cent net last year, which proves that steamship earnings are large in the irregular services as well as in the regular lines. In fact, the profits of the steamship business are so large that frequently the entire cost of a ship is earned in two years.

The question will arise, why have not Americans gone into such profitable business? The answer is, for the same reason that Americans have neglected the vast foreign exports trade; they have been too busy with their industries at home.

But, unlike the export trade, which each manufacturer can work up individually, to establish an adequate Merchant Marine is so large an undertaking at this time and involves so large an amount of money, that if it is to be done at all, it must be done by the Government.

4. Opponents to the bill say that there will be danger of the United States violating neutrality if it operates merchant ships at this time.

The report of the Committee on the Merchant Marine, says:

"We have rights as neutrals as well as duties to be observed. * * * The president will have the state department to advise him on all questions affecting our rights and duties as neutrals. * * * We should assume that the president and shipping board, in the exercise of any powers granted or duties imposed by this bill, will keep well within our rights as neutrals."

On this point the secretary of the treasury, McAdoo, also says:

"The board proposed in this bill consists really of the president of the United States and certain cabinet officers therein mentioned. I think there is no more punctilious citizens of the United States with respect to the neutrality of this country than the President of the United States. I think you may safely depend upon it, if this bill is passed and this board vested with power to act, that that power will be exercised in such a way that the neutrality of this country will be preserved."

5. Opponents to the bill make an alternative proposition that we should build up an American Merchant Marine by granting subsidies.

Subsidy seekers have managed to create a belief that the merchant marines of European countries, especially the merchant marines of the two greatest maritime countries in the world, Great Britain and Germany, have been built up by granting subsidies to its shipping. Neither of these countries grant subsidies except to a very limited extent and for very special service.

The Hamburg-American line, the largest and perhaps the most successful steamship company in the world, has never received a subsidy. A moderate subsidy was granted by Great Britain to the Cunard Company in connection with the steamers Mauretania and Lusitania, but that was chiefly to keep the Cunard Company from selling out to the International Mercantile Marine, the combination organized by J. P. Morgan & Co. Over 90 per cent of the total tonnage of Great Britain does not receive a farthing of subsidy.

It will surprise many to know that the United States pays a larger subsidy to four American ships, owned by the International Mercantile Marine, namely the New York, Philadelphia, St. Paul and St. Louis, than is paid by any foreign nation for similar service. This country pays to these ships an annual subsidy of about $735,000, and obtains practically nothing in return for this except the carrying of the mails on these steamers, which, at regular rates would amount to only a trifling fraction of the amount of the subsidy. As a matter of fact, most of our mail goes forward on foreign ships as they are much faster and they sail more frequently, the subsidized Americans ships being among the smallest and most out-of-date steamers in the North Atlantic trade.

The extraordinary large profits in the steamship business show that steamships can be operated profitably under the American flag without a subsidy, in spite of the somewhat higher wages and better living requirements of American seamen; therefore it will be will nigh impossible to obtain a subsidy simply to make up the extra profits possible under foreign flags. For the same reason we will never have an American Merchant Marine unless it is established by the government, because such private capital as may go into the foreign shipping business will operate under foreign flags to get the benefit of cheaper operation, when the dangers of war are passed.

The present war has made it possible to secure, at most favorable prices, an excellent choice of modern, up-to-date steamers of different nationalities,

Cunard- Ford Combination Comes Back To The Front

With Miss Grace Cunard and Francis Ford, Playing a Return Engagement at the Bijou Tomorrow.

Francis Ford and Grace Cunard discontinued "My Lady Raffles" series of crook-detective dramas to produce the sensational serial play, "Lucile Love". The remarkable success of this latter masterpiece undoubtedly justifies this, but still such dramas as "The Return of the Twin's Double", "The Leopard Lady" and "The Mystery of the White Car" will not soon be forgotten. They were liked for their virility, action and sparkling plots. Above all, they were enjoyed because of the superior work of these two artists, Mr. Ford and Miss Cunard, who were responsible for the writing, the directing and the acting.

A little slavey in an English boarding house accidentally discovers the "swag" of a couple of crooks. She dismisses the event from her mind owing to the numerous little attentions which the two have been showering upon her.

Kelly, the detective, locates the two at the boarding house. He secures a room next to and connecting with theirs. In making up the detective's bed one morning the slavey discovers his revolver and handcuffs and thus learns his vocation. She concludes that he is there to cause trouble for her friends in the next room. The detective enters at this moment and upbraids the girl.

Later the detective has the crooks at bay, but the slavey facilitates their escape.

Five years after find the slavey in a magnificent suit of apartments, occupied by herself and the two crooks. Under their direction she has gained the soubriquet of "My Lady Raffles".

Learning of a fashionable wedding the crooks buy a handsome cedar chest, which they send in with the other gifts. Kelly is in the room in which the gifts are kept, having been assigned there to keep watch. He sees a white hand come out from under the cover of the chest. He draws his gun, which is accidentally discharged. In the confusion that follows the owner of the hand escapes. Kelly, however, has had time to observe that the hand bears a peculiar birth mark. Cudgeling his brain, he recalls that the little slavey back in the boarding house had just such a mark.

He hurries after her and locates the house occupied by the crooks. By a ruse he admits himself. He steals into the girl's room, where he conceals himself behind a curtain. There he finds her and places her under arrest. The girl is clad in bloomers, so the detective grants her request to put on a skirt. She goes to the wall, a panel slides back and behold, the girl has escaped his clutches. He hears a machine outside and rushes to the window. From the speeding car "My Lady Raffles" throws back a kiss to the outwitted detective.

"Witch Girl" Shows Mary Fuller At Best

MARY FULLER in "The WITCH GIRL" TWO-REEL VICTOR DRAMA

What is the secret of Mary Fuller's mysterious charm, her wonderful popularity? True, she is the most talked of, written about and advertised girl on the screen today, but these things are purely results. Rarely has a more subtle personality appeared on either the stage or screen. Likely, this has had much to do with it. And yet, Miss Fuller is one of the most finished artists and brainiest little stars in filmdom. Is it brains, personality or talent which makes this girl what she is? Or is it the combination of all three plus good plays? Who shall say? But here is Miss Fuller in the two-part play, "The Witch Girl." Miss Fuller is the unusual heroine—she is marvelous and the play is superb. This wild young heroine, roaming the woods without regard to propriety, painfully innocent, but with a code of morals like steel implanted deep down; you will think the girl an extraordinary young thing, as she undoubtedly is, but you cannot form an opinion of her until you have seen the play.

"The Witch Girl" will introduce Miss Fuller, star, to Universal patrons for the first time. And while the Universal ventures to predict that you will find Miss Fuller more winsome, entertaining than ever before—you will also find the play one of unusual quality.

Consider: How is love won? Would you say that this drama describes a special case—or is there something common to all women in the way of "The Witch Girl" with William Prentiss? She had illusions about him—she thought him fine and good—and then, when he forced his lips to hers, the awakening came. For the moment she hated him. And then—but you see the picture to see what happens when the unsuspected depths of a woman's nature are suddenly revealed to this big man. See how this man readjusted his views of innocent girls—see how he learned to repress his baser instincts in order to win this girl in the way she wanted to be won. Incidentally, you will learn a few things yourself worth knowing.

MISS MESEREAU PLAYS A DIFFICULT ROLE

VIOLET MERSEREAU, LEADING WOMAN with WILLIAM SHAY.

In the new Imp production, "The Greatest Thing in the World," Violet Mesereau, said to be one of the youngest leading women in filmdom, aptly carries through a difficult task. When the story begins Miss Mesereau plays the part of a young girl, but later in the piece she portrays the character of an old lady. The story hinges about a domestic tragedy resulting from the perfidy of a thoughtless city youth. Herbert Brenon is the director.

Bed Too Soft For MacQuarrie

"All right," said Charles Giblyn, director of Nestor company as he looked up from his script of "The Widow's Last," "Ready for the sick-room scene. Mac, you're in bed. Take off some of your duds and climb in. The rest of you—"

Without waiting for more, Murdock MacQuarrie removed his shirt and shoes and slid in under the covers on the "prop" bed. A moment later, as the action was about to start, the sun went under a cloud and a ten-minute delay followed. Then, as the light again became strong enough to photograph, Mr. Giblyn gave the word and the action started.

The widow heard a knock at the door, opened it and admitted a physician. After a conversation, the latter approached the sick bed, and, gently taking MacQuarrie's wrist, consulted his watch. Then something occurred that caused the cast to stand paralyzed. MacQuarrie was apparently mad. It was thought at first that the heat had been too much for him.

Jerking himself to a sitting posture, he gazed wide-eyed in every direction and shouted: "For the love of Mike, Charlie, for the love of Mike, has the action started"?

Then the explanation came forth. It was not the heat. Faithful Mac was asleep at the switch. The delay had been too long, and the bed had been too comfortable, and under the influence of the murmur of the voices, he had dropped into the arms of Morpheus.

England's Faithful Indian Army

It is an astounding spectacle. For the first time since the Spaniards hurled the Moors out of Europe—and that was long before Columbus sailed for America-brown men and white are at death-grapple on European soil. Somewhere aligned between Berlin and Paris, sandwiched in between the soldiers of France and England, those brown men are to be found grinning behind British steel. They are not men of one race one color, or one creed. They are drawn from a continent and not from a country; and that continent as various in its inhabitants as in Europe. Among them are Ghoorkas from Nepal—small men of the Mongolian type, big-boned, bow-legged, bulletheaded; looking like bulldogs and not unlike them in tenacity and fighting power. There are the long, athletic Sikhs from the Land of the Five Rivers, who never shave or cut their hair, and who, under Ranjeet Singh, the Lion of the Punjab, carved for themselves an Empire that extended from the Sutlej to the Kabul River. There are proud Rajpoots from Central India, soldiers and gentlemen for a hundred generations. There are keen-faced Pathans from across the Indus, with shaven skulls and Semitic faces. And there are in Wild Afridis from over the Border, drawn from their mountain fastnesses to the service of the British Raj by their admiration for the white man who can beat them at their own games of sport and war—Alfred Ollivant, in the November "World's Work."

Many Injuries To Universal Players

MOST DANGEROUS SCENES NOW BEING STAGED IN THE GREAT SAN GABRIEL CANYON.

The Universal Company that is producing "The Trey o'Hearts" has moved over to the wonderful San Gabriel canyon, right in the heart of the Sierras, where the most dangerous scenes of the entire story, which will be seen in the closing installments, are being taken. That many of the scenes so far have not been attended with fatal accidents seems almost a marvel. But minor mishaps have been many, and of the entire company not one has escaped without injury or illness. Here is a list of the minor accidents:

"Cleo Madison, a badly lacerated knee cap and severe bruises about the back and shoulders; George Larkin, one ear nearly torn off and bruised and battered legs and body; Harry Vellajo, a sprained wrist; Leigh Smith, poison oak over both arms and his face; Ray Hanford, a cut on the knee and bruises too numerous to mention; Rex Hodge, a congestion of the lungs; Tom Walsh, sprained back; Wilfred Lucas (director) a pair of feet swollen and blistered until he cannot walk on them; Johnny Pierce, a broken nose."

The above quotation is not taken from newspaper accounts of the "Wreck of the Underland Limited," nor is it a hospital record after the battle of "Rxtamisky." It is a paragraph from the report rendered by Dr. Joss, of the Universal City Hospital, upon his return from the San Gabriel canyon, after he had spent a week with the Universal Company during their staging of the thirteenth installment of "The Trey O' Hearts."

THE JAWS OF DEATH

SYNOPSIS—The 3 of Hearts is the "death-sign" employed by Seneca Trine in the private war of vengeance which, through the agency of his daughter Judith, a woman of violent passions like his own, he wages against Alan Law, son of the man (now dead) who was innocently responsible for the accident which left Trine a helpless cripple for life. Alan loves and is loved by Rose, Judith's twin and double, but in all other respects her opposite. Judith vows to compass Alan's death, but Alan saves her life under dramatic circumstances, and so, unwillingly, wins her love. Thereafter Judith is actuated in turn by the old hatred, the new love, and jealousy of her sister, Rose; she becomes alienated from her father through her failure to carry out his homicidal plans, and because of the aid she has extended Alan in his flight with Rose from the vengeance of Trine through the mountains of western Arizona.

I—CAMP-FOR-THE-NIGHT.

"Well, gents!" the driver observed cheerfully, withdrawing head and hands from long and intimate communion with the stubborn genius beneath the hood, "I reckon you-all may's well make up yore minds to christen this-hyeh salubrious spot Camp-for-the-Night. You won't be goin' no fartheh—not just 't present. Pulling this old wagon through them desert sands back yondeh has just naturally broke' the heart of that engine!"

"What, precisely, is the trouble?" Alan Law inquired, rousing from anxious preoccupation.

"Plumb bust' all to hell," the chauffeur explained tersely.

"Nothing could be fairer, more exact and comprehensive than that," Tom Barcus commented.

Law nodded a head too weary to respond to the other's humor. His worried eyes reviewed the scene of the breakdown.

"What's to be done?" he wondered aloud.

"Take it calm," the affable chauffeur advised. "Frettin' won't get you-all nothin'. If it was me, I'd call it a day, make a fire, get them cushions out of the cyah, and get some rest. You can't do nothin' till I get back, anyway, and that won't be much before sunup."

"Where are you going?" Barcus demanded.

"Walkin', friend; just walkin'—"

"What for?"

"To fetch help—leastways, onless yo've got some kick comin' and 'ud ruther stop hyeh permanent'—"

He turned off and busied himself with preparations against his journey.

"It's simply things like this make me believe this isn't, after all, nothing more nor less than a long-drawn-out nightmare," Barcus observed.

Mr. Law was not attending: he had turned away and was just then standing by the running-board of the motor car and civilly explaining to Miss Judith Trine the purpose of the chauffeur's expedition.

Discovery of this circumstance worked a deep wrinkle between the brows as well as into the humor of Mr. Barcus.

Here, he promised himself, was a situation to titillate the Comic Muse itself. He pointed out in turn the several component parts: the motor car derelict in the hollow of those awful and silent hills—for all the world like a mouse petrified with fright at finding itself in the midst of a herd of elephants; in the car that aged monomaniac, Mr. Seneca Trine, author of all their woes and misadventures, gnashing his teeth in impotent rage to find himself in close juxtaposition to and helpless to injure the man for whose life he lusted with an insatiate passion; the latter standing outside the car, in polite conversation with Mr. Trine's mutinous Judith—talking to her in the friendliest fashion imaginable, precisely as if she had not fallen little short of compassing his death, not once, but half a dozen times; Judith herself poised on the running-board and smiling down at her victim with a warmth patently even more than the warmth of friendship; and at some little distance, Rose, Mr. Law's fiancee and Judith's sister, eating her heart out with jealousy of this new-sprung intimacy between her sister and her lover!

"Bad business, my friend!" Barcus mentally apostrophized the unwitting Alan Law. "Bad business—and only the beginning of it, or I'm no prophet. If you had the wit with which Providence has endowed the domestic goose, you'd realize that you might as well encourage the attentions of a coy young cyclone as the affections of that handsome, upstanding and able-bodied young woman who's spilling her heart out of her eyes into yours this blessed minute as ever was! Not to mention the trouble you're brewing for yourself with the young woman to whom your affections are unswervingly devoted!"

He interrupted himself to nod knowingly and with profound conviction: "I knew it. Now it begins again!"

For Rose had abruptly taken a hand in the affair, a gesture of exasperation prefacing her call: "Alan!"

To her Mr. Law turned instantly, with such alacrity that none who watched might doubt which of the two women came first in his esteem.

Nor was this wasted upon the understanding of Judith. Eyeing her narrowly though furtively, Mr. Barcus saw her handsome face darken ominously.

And her father was as quick to recognize these portents of trouble and to seek to advantage himself of them.

His head craned out horribly on his long, wasted neck as he pitched a sibilant whisper for her ears, and his face in the moonlight seemed to glow with the reflection of that inferno which smoldered in his evil bosom . . .

But one was silenced, the other quenched, all in a twinkling. His daughter turned on him in a flash of imperial rage.

"Be silent!" Barcus heard her say. "Be silent, do you hear? Don't ever speak to me again unless you want me to replace that gag. I say, don't speak to me! . . . I am finished with you once and for all time: never again shall you pervert my nature to your damnable purposes—never again shall word or wish of yours drive me to lift my hand against a man who has never done you the least harm, though your persecution of him would have acquitted him of a charge of manslaughter in any court—on grounds of self-defense! . . . Understand me!" she raged. "I'm through. Henceforth I go my way, and you yours . . ."

Her voice broke. She clenched her hands into two tight fists with the effort at self-control, and lifted a writhen face to the moonlight. "God help us both!" she cried.

II—AS IN A GLASS, DARKLY.

If the evidence of his senses did not mislead him, he was witnessing their first difference of opinion. It was not an argument acute enough to deserve the name of quarrel; but undoubtedly the two were at odds upon some question—Rose insistent, Alan reluctant.

This last gave way in the end, shrugged, returned to the car.

"I'm going back up the trail," he announced, and hesitated oddly.

"Feeling the need of some little exercise, no doubt," Barcus suggested.

"Rose thinks it's dangerous to stop here," Alan began to explain, ignoring the interruption.

Judith nodded darkly.

"So I'm going to see if I can't buy burros from the prospector back there. Rose says he has some—doesn't know how many—"

"Three will be enough," Judith interposed. "I mean, don't get one for me. I'm stopping here."

"But—" Alan started to protest.

She gave him pause with a weary gesture.

"Please! It's no good arguing, Mr. Law: I've made up my mind; I can be most helpful here, by my father's side," she asserted, and nodded at Trine with a significant smile that maddened him. "He needs me—and no harm can come to me: I'm pretty well able to take care of myself!"

At this the innocent bystander breathed an unheard but fervent little prayer of thanksgiving, whose spirit he doubted not was shared by Alan.

For it stuck in the memory of Barcus that their friend, the prospector (whose shack had sheltered Rose and Barcus after their transit of the desert and prior to the man-made avalanche, which had afforded this temporary immunity from pursuit) had mentioned in the hearing of Rose the fact that his string of burros was limited to three.

This, then, must have been the nub of the lovers' quarrel: Rose's insistence that Judith be left behind, Alan's reluctance to consent to this lest he convict himself of the charge of rank ingratitude, remembering the great service his erstwhile antagonist had done him.

If only Judith might not find cause to change her mind!

He set himself sedulously to divert Judith with the magic of his conversational powers—an offering indifferently received. He was still blithely gossiping when Judith flung away to her sister's side.

The ensuing quarrel seemed but the more portentous in view of the restraint imposed upon themselves by both parties thereto.

He believed, however, that a crisis impended when the tinkle of mule-bells sounded down the canyon road; and at this he threw discretion to the winds and ran toward the two with hands upheld in mock horror and a manner of humorous protest.

"Ladies, ladies!" he pleaded. "I beg of you both, let dogs delight to bark and bite—"

He got no farther: Judith's ears were as quick as his own; she, too, had caught the sound of bells behind the base of the hill. And of a sudden, without another word, she turned and flung away into the heavy thickets of undergrowth that masked all the canyon, to either side of the wagon-trail. In a twinkling she had lost herself to view in their labyrinthine shadows. . . .

The remainder of that business was transacted rapidly enough. There were no preparations to be made; once Alan had ridden up with his three burros, nothing remained but to mount and make off without delay.

Before morning they were all riding like so many hypnotized subjects, fatigue bearing so heavily on all their senses that none spoke or cared to speak. Barcus so often caught himself nodding in the saddle that he had little doubt he slept through long stretches of that perilous way.

Broad daylight surprised them in this state, still stubbornly traveling; and shortly afterward showed them one place so perilous that it shocked them temporarily awake.

This was simply a spot where the trail came abruptly to an end on one side of a cleft in the hills quite thirty feet wide and several hundred in depth and was continued on the farther side, the chasm being spanned by a bridge of the simplest character.

Alan tested the bridge cautiously. It bore him. He returned, helped Rose to cross, and with her once safely landed on the farther side, took his life in his hands and, aided by a Barcus unaffectedly afflicted with qualms, somehow or other (neither ever knew precisely how) persuaded the burros to cross.

After that, though the way grew more broad and easy and even showed symptoms of a decline, they had not strength enough left to sustain through another hour.

And what they thought good fortune, opportunely at this pass, brought them to a clearing dotted with the buildings of an abandoned copper mine. Not a soul was in evidence there, but the rude structures offered shelter for beast as well as man. Barely had they made Rose as comfortable as might be upon the rough plank flooring of one of the sheds and tethered the burros out of sight, when Alan collapsed as if drugged, while Barcus, who had elected himself to keep the first watch and purposed doing it in a sitting position, with his back against the door-jamb, felt sleep overcoming him like a dense, dark cloud.

The Arrangements of Their Captors Were Swiftly and Deftly Consummated.

III—THE BOWELS OF THE EARTH.

Awakening befell Mr. Barcus in a fashion sufficiently sharp and startling to render him indifferent to the beneficial effects of some eight hours of dreamless slumber.

He discovered himself lying flat on his face, with somebody's inconsiderate, heavy hand purposely grinding the said face into the aged and splintery planks of the shed flooring. At the same time other hands were busy binding his own together by the wrists and lashing the same to the small of his back by means of a cord passed round his middle. While his natural if somewhat spasmodic efforts to kick were sadly hampered by the fact that his ankles had already been secured by means of half a dozen half-hitches and a square knot.

His hands attended to, his head was released. Promptly he lifted it and essayed a yell: an effort rendered abortive by the gag that was thrust between his teeth the instant his jaws opened.

Then he heard a laugh, a cold and mirthless chuckle.

Now the blood of Thomas Barcus ran cold (or he thought it did; which amounts to much the same thing). For if his senses had played fair, the laugh he had heard was the laugh of Mr. Marrophat, head-devil in the service of Seneca Trine.

He twisted his head to one side and glancing along the floor, saw nothing but the wall. Twisted the other way, at the cost of a splinter in his nose, the effort was repaid by the discovery of Rose Trine in plight like unto his own—wrists and ankles bound, gagged into the bargain—the width of the shed between them.

But of Alan Law, no sign . .

The heart of Mr. Barcus checked momentarily; he shut his eyes and shivered in an uncontrollable seizure of dread.

Then, tormented beyond endurance by the fears he suffered for the safety of his friend, he began to wriggle and squirm like a crippled snake, painfully inching his way across the floor toward Rose—with what design, heaven alone knows! Dimly his mental vision comprehended the bare possibility of his being able, with his fast-numbing fingers, to work loose the knots at Rose's wrists; but deep in his heart he knew this to be nothing but the forlornest of hopes . . .

With infinite pains he had contrived to bridge the distance by half, or possibly not quite so much, when a dark body put the sunlight of the open doorway into temporary eclipse. Another followed it. Boots clumped heavily on the flooring. The laugh sounded again, apparently in ironic appreciation of Mr. Barcus' efforts. Two pairs of hands seized him, one beneath the shoulders, the other beneath the knees, and he was lugged laboriously out into the sunlight, carried a considerable distance, and deposited unceremoniously within a few feet of the mouth of the abandoned mine.

Then he was left to himself once more, but only for a few moments: the interval ended when the two appeared again, this time bringing Rose in similar fashion.

Not until she had been put down beside him did he discover that Alan was likewise a captive—trussed to a tree at some distance.

The remaining arrangements of their captors were swiftly and deftly consummated, though their design remained obscure to Mr. Barcus until he, after Rose, was dumped like a bale into a huge bucket, and therein by means of rope and windlass lowered to the bottom of the shaft—a descent, he estimated shrewdly, of something like a hundred feet.

A hideous screeching followed, the protests of rusty and greaseless machinery. Twisting his neck, Barcus saw the dim opening of the shaft slowly closing, as if a curtain were being drawn down over it. Jimmy was closing the bulkhead door, leaving them definitely prisoners, beyond human aid, there in that everlasting black hole . . .

With a final squeal and thump the bulkhead settled into place. A confusion of remote sounds thereafter indicated that Jimmy (with, perhaps, Marrophat's assistance) was making the bulkhead fast beyond question—wedging and blocking it with timbers.

"Barcus!"

The latter grunted soulfully by way of answer: he could do no more.

"I've worked my gag loose," Alan pursued in a hurried whisper, "but my hands are tied behind my back. Are yours? Grunt once for 'yes'."

Dutifully Barcus grunted a solitary grunt.

"Then roll over on your face and give me a chance at your bonds with my teeth. I ought to be able to work them free that way, given time . . ."

Soon all were free of their bonds. Alan was first to speak.

"Barcus—old man!"

"Yes?"

"Did you notice what that blackguard had fixed up?"

"What do you mean?"

"Why—at the bottom of the shaft—I got only a glimpse coming in—the door of the powder room was open, and I saw a fuse set to the top of a keg of blasting powder . . ."

"What's the good of that? We're fast enough as it is!"

"Simply to make assurance doubly sure by causing a cave-in . . ."

"I seem to remember hearing or reading, some place, that tunnels have two ends. If that's true, the far end of this ought to be about the safest place when that explosion happens—if it ever does."

"Something in that!"

"Got any matches?" Barcus inquired, as Alan hurriedly helped Rose to her feet.

"Never one."

"Nor I. We'll have to feel our way along. Let me lead. If I step over the brink of a pit or anything, I'll try to yell and warn you in time."

A ticklish business, that—groping their way through blackness so opaque that it seemed as palpable as a pool of ink. And haste was indicated: they stumbled on with what caution was possible against pitfalls—a gingerly scramble. Then an elbow in the tunnel—sensed rather than felt or seen—cut them off from direct communication with the bulkhead, and at the same time opened up a shaft of daylight, striking down through that pitchy darkness like a column of fine gold.

Cries of joy, amazement, incredulity choking in their throats, they stumbled forward, gained the spot immediately below the shaft, looked upward, dazzled, to see blue sky like a coin of heaven's minting far above them, at the end of a long and almost perpendicular tunnel, wide enough to permit the passage of a man's body, and lined with wooden ladders.

But even as Alan lifted his hands to grasp the bottom rung the opening at the top of the shaft was temporarily obscured.

Thrilled with apprehension, he hesitated: Marrophat was up there, he little doubted; hardly like that one to overlook the ladder-shaft in preparing the tunnel to be a living tomb.

Marrophat or no Marrophat at the top, there was nothing for him to do but to grasp the nettle danger with a steady hand, unflinching. Even though he were shot dead on emerging from the shaft, it were better than to die down there, like a rat in a trap. . . .

He had climbed not more than half a dozen rungs when a voice hailed from above:

"Law—Oh, Mister Law I say—don't come up—here's a present for you."

Pausing without answer, he looked up. A few drops of water spattered his face, like heavy rain. Almost immediately the blue sky was permanently eclipsed: a heavy cascade of water, almost a solid column, shot down the shaft with terrific force. Alan sought vainly to escape it, to mount against it. Seeming to gain in strength and volume with each instant, it beat upon his head and shoulders with irresistible power. Before he knew it, his grasp had been wrenched away from the ladders and he was shooting feet first back into the tunnel.

Half-drowned and wholly dazed, he felt himself picked up and dragged away from the waterfall.

Then, as his senses cleared, he comprehended the fact that the tunnel was already filling; that where they stood it was already ankle deep; while the water continued to fall without hint of letup.

IV—FLOOD AND FIRE.

"That devil! He's found the reservoir—opened the sluicegates—turned it into that shaft! We're done for!"

Alan had no argument with which to gainsay him. Silently getting on his feet, silently he groped for Rose in the darkness, momentarily becoming more dense as the fall of water shut out the light, and drew her away with him, up the slight incline that led back to the bulkhead. . . . as an hour in hell.

To die there, in the darkness, like so many noxious animals trapped in a well! . . .

The water mounted rapidly. Within five minutes it drove them back to the elbow in the tunnel; within ten it lapped their ankles as they lingered there, doubting which was the greater peril, to advance or to stand fast and let the flooding tide snuff out the fires of life. To return to the neighborhood of the bulkhead was to court the death indicated by the fuse and the keg of blasting powder . . .

Of a sudden the thought crossed Alan's mind that Marrophat had arranged the latter solely to keep them away from the bulkhead.

He was decidedly of the opinion that it were better to be extinguished once and for all time, in the space of a second, annihilated by an explosion, than to die thus lingeringly.

On this consideration, he drew Rose with him, back to the bulkhead.

When they had been some fifteen minutes beside the bulkhead, the water mounted the head of a slight rise perhaps ten feet behind them, and poured down in ever deeper volume to back up against the barrier.

In fifteen minutes more it had reached their chins. And they stood with heads against the roof of the tunnel.

Holding Rose close to him, Alan kissed her lips, that were as cold as death.

* * *

In the tunnel that branched off from the main shaft, beyond the bulkhead, some thirty minutes before this juncture, a candle had guttered in its stick, left carelessly thrust into the wall by Marrophat's lieutenant, and guttering, had dropped a flaming wick into a little heap of bone-dry debris. This last flamed, licked hungrily at the timbering that upheld the walls of the tunnel. The timbering caught fire without delay. In a space of time incredibly brief the flames were spreading right and left, the tunnel was a vault of blistering fury.

As Alan said his last mute farewell to Rose and Barcus, the fire spread out in the bottom of the shaft and invaded the powder room.

Alan had guessed aright at Marrophat's design; the keg of blasting powder was less than an eighth full; its explosion could not possibly have effected the cave-in Alan had at first feared.

But what Marrophat had overlooked was the proximity to the keg of some several sticks of dynamite, masked by a film of earth that had fallen from the crumbling walls.

When the blazing fuse dropped sparks into the blasting powder this last exploded right willingly and the dynamite took its cue without the least delay.

The resultant detonation was terrific. The bulkhead was crushed in like an eggshell barrier. Part of the walls fell in, but the tunnels and shaft remained intact.

Swept with the stream as it poured out of the tunnel, Alan contrived throughout to retain his hold round the waist of Rose. Barcus shot past him unseen in the darkness.

Half-blinded and stifled as he was by the reek of steam and powder fumes, Alan struggled with himself until his wits were passably clear.

Immediately before him dangled the hoisting bucket and rope.

Surrendering the care of Rose to Barcus, Alan climbed into the bucket and stared upward, examining the walls of the shaft for a way to the top.

There was none other than the most difficult: gaps too great to be bridged by climbing showed in the wooden ladders.

The one feasible route was via the rope. And there was nobody at the top to work the windlass—and Alan hoped there would be nobody to oppose his essay.

He addressed himself to the task without murmuring—lifted himself upon the rope, wound it round one leg, and began that heartbreaking climb.

He arrived at the top of the shaft far too exhausted to show surprise when, falling in half-fainting condition within two feet of the brink, he saw Judith Trine running like mad across the clearing.

But without her aid he would not within hours have been able to work the windlass and lift Rose and Barcus to the surface.

CONGRESSMEN ELECTED

The control of Congress was the principle fight in the national election held last Tuesday, which, in results reduces the Democratic majority in the lower House from 140 to 24 and increases their majority in the Senate from five to 14.

Republicans, prominent in Congress and who were unseated by the Democratic landslide when Woodrow Wilson was elected President, and who were returned by Tuesday's vote include former Speaker of the House "Uncle Joe" Cannon; Theodore Roosevelt's son-in-law, Nicholas Longworth and William B .McKinley, from the Nineteenth Illinois district. It is probable that the Republicans will endeavor to replace the present Speaker of the House, Clark of Missouri, with the former Speaker, Cannon.

The Democratic leaders in Congress will have to maintain an almost perfect organization to control that branch of the national legislative body. The leader in the present session, Underwood, of Alabama, goes to the Senate for the next session and the leadership of the majority party will fall to Claude Kitchen, of North Carolina, who is the ranking member of the Ways and Means committee.

Following is a list of those elected in Tuesday's battle of votes. Doubtful districts, or those in which the official count will have to be made before the election of anyone is certain, are left blank:

also many steamers not yet out of the builders' hands, hence not yet nationalized, at less than the contract price. Also, as a result of the war, the financial success of the enterprise is more fully assured as we will not have the competition of the warring nations to the same extent that we would have in times of peace.

The $40,000,000 called for by the shipping bill will not be an expense, as the bill's opponents are pleased to call it, but it will be an investment of the first class, without considering the enormous advantage to the whole people of the United States in having an American Merchant Marine under government control, and the great reduction in rates that will be possible as the government will not desire net earnings of from 30 per cent. to 50 per cent. on its investment, but will be content with only a fair return.

It would be little short of a political and economic crime if we did not avail ourselves of the present almost unbelievable opportunity to do in a most practical manner that which Congress was endeavoring to do before the commencement of the war, as best it could, by means of the Week's bill.

NO INTEREST IN ELECTION

Canvassing Board Meets But Returns Not Yet Available.

Greenville, N. C., Nov. 6.—So little interest is taken in the election that it is now hard to get any true returns. The canvassing board met yesterday but there seems not enough interest in the matter for the average layman to get particulars. Your correspondent went to the court house today but could learn practically nothing. One court house officer said he had heard that the amendments were carried by about 200 but would not vouch for its truth. For Senator, Overman got 1,580 and Whitemer 242. Travis got 1,891, Parson 237. The average majority for the county ticket was about 1,550.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT IN BUSINESS CONDITIONS

Raleigh Bankers and Others Very Optimistic

Wilmington and Lumberton Bankers on Special Committee—O. R. Smith's Claims Are O. K.d. Three New Corporations.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 7.—With cotton selling on the local market for 7 1-4 cents, the North Carolina bankers in line for participating as fully as need be in the big $135,000,000 Wade-St. Louis cotton loan syndicate, and with the general money conditions in New York and other financial centers decidedly easier and New York's recent money deficit transformed into a surplus by the influx of money from the West and the South, North Carolina business men may well feel optimistic.

This is the view of the situation taken by Mr. Joseph G. Brown, president of the Citizens' National Bank, and chairman of the North Carolina Federal Reserve committee, and by other leading business men hereabouts.

They point out that cotton is recovering of its own sheer intrinsic value and that with the aid of the $135,000,000 loan fund for averting distress sales, the cotton situation can but be solved to the complete rescue of the growers and allied business interests that have been so grayely exercised because of the situation the past few months. Within a few weeks now there will be in every locality where cotton loans from the Wade-St. Louis syndicate are desired local committees to negotiate the procurement of the advances desired, which are made on the basis that an investment of one-fourth of the amount of the loan desired is to be made in the fund, this yielding 6 per cent.

The State committee in charge of North Carolina interests in the fund consists of A. W. McLean, Lumberton; J. S. Carr, Durham; W. B. Drake, Raleigh; T. E. Cooper, Wilmington; H. C. McQueen, Wilmington; Joseph G. Brown, Raleigh; W. C. Wilkinson, Charlotte.

Designed Confederate Flag.

Chief Justice Walter Clark, Col. J. Bryan Grimes and Col. W. P. Wood, as a special committee appointed by the North Ca.olina Confederate Veterans' Association at the recent annual meeting here, finds that the claims that Orrin Randolph Smith, of Franklin county, for many years a resident of Raleigh, is the real designer of the Confederate flag, are sustained amply by affidavits and other evidence that constrain them to fully endorse the claims. Copies of the findings of the committee are being sent to Miss Jessica Smith, daughter of Orrin Smith, at Fayetteville, who has made the fight for the recognition of the claim of her late father; to the president of the North Carolina Daughters of the Confederacy, the president of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and to the president of the United Confederate Veterans. A copy goes to the annual convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy at Savannah next week where a fight will be made for adoption of the findings there.

Three New Corporations.

Charters were issued today for three new corporations as follows:

Rex Distributing Co., Goldsboro, capital $25,000 authorized and $3,000 subscribed by F. K. Borden and others for distributing talking machines and for other purposes.

The Percival Motor Co., of Fayetteville, capital $10,000 authorized and $3,000 subscribed by E. W. Percival and others for motor vehicle business.

The Merchants' Warehouse Co., of Red Springs, for warehousing cotton and other farm products and issuing negotiable certificates of deposit, incorporators, W. J. Council and others.

Still Figuring on Amendments.

Experts on election figures are still figuring in the fate of the amendments to the constitution and are centering more and more on a conclusion that possibly all ten are lost and that certainly the tax amendments was voted down by something like 10,000.

One of the closest students of returns here says that the real situation seems to be that majorities for the amendments were voted only in the First and the Tenth congressional districts as a rule and that he can figure no possible way that will indicate that these majorities for the amendments in these extreme districts can overcome the majorities against them that were the rule in the great body of central and east and west central counties.

It is pointed out that there are a half dozen counties with definite returns already in that pile up 12,000 to 15,000 majority against the amendments, that Gaston county first reported the amendments carried in that county and it now develops that Gaston voted against them by 900. Then there are Guilford, Wake, Johnston, Sampson, Robeson, Davidson and others that voted heavily against the amendments and more especially against the tax amendment. It is though that if any of the amendments are safe it is possibly the amendments for six months schools and the reducing the volume of local legislation in the General Assembly.

At the same time it is known that there was strong opposition to the local legislation amendment developed in the last days of the campaign in a quiet way on the ground that to put on the county commissioners the necssity of a mass of local legislative control now burdening the Legislature, would multiply chances for factional disturbances and endanger county tickets greatly. This view was especially urged here in Wake against this proposal and it worked effectively, Wake having piled up majorities against all of them, probably among the largest in the State.

Bost's Purse Comes Back.

C. C. McDonald, the stock and bond man, has received from the postoffice at Washington, one of his leather coin purses that he had presented to T. W. Bost, the Raleigh newspaperman, along with a penny, on the eve of his recent trip to Europe, when he was caught in the crush at the opening of the European war. Bost was robbed in London and this purse was found and the London authorities sent it to the United States postoffice department at Washington for possible restoration to its owner. The only mark on it was the C. C. McDonald, Raleigh, N. C., advertising imprint. The department at Washington sent it to Mr. McDonald here and now it is identified as that taken from Mr. Bost when "the ostrich farm confidence man" relieved him of pocket book and later managed to return his letters of credit that he could not use.

CHRISTIAN CONVENTION ADJOURNS

Well Attended—Much Business—Pantego Next Year.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Greenville, N. C., Nov. 7.—The seventh annual session of the North Carolina Christian Missionary Convention came to a close Thursday. It was a big convention, well attended and a profitable one.

The Christian Woman's board of missions meeting was a striking feature. The report of the corresponding secretary showed there are 41 missionary societies in the State. Receipts, including a personal girf, were $2,892.55. In the Young People's department the report shows 470 members and offerings of over $400. Most of their work is done through the National society, which handles the funds. Goldsboro and Wilmington were the two places helped by the board the past year.

The officers for the coming year are Mrs. R. E. Hill, Kinston, president; Mrs. C. A. D. Grainger, Kinston, vice president; Mrs. F. F. Brooks, recording secretary; Mrs. J. F. Taylor, treasurer; Miss Etta Nunn, Newbern, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. R. F. Hill, superintendent of children's work.

There were several addresses by visitors representing the national work. Among these were that of Rev. A. R. Moore, Savannah, on church extension work. His report showed that North Carolina churches had contributed to the fund the sum of $3,329.25, had been helped to the amount of $13,440, and had returned on this amount $5,250. Rev. J. H. Mohorter, St. Louis, made a strong plea for greater benevolence and a collection netted $110.89. Several resolutions on advanced grounds were passed, one of these being that of favoring publicity of all schools and the right of the State to make investigation of any school, home, orphanage, convent or other such institution.

Mr. J. W. Hines, Rocky Mount, was re-elected president and Mr. F. E. Hooker, Greenville, and W. C. Manning, Williamston, were elected members of the State board, to succeed E. A. Moye and W. M. Lang, deceased.

The report of President J. C. Caldwell, of the Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, showed a very gratifying condition, both as to the success of the school in attendance and finances.

Wichita, Kans., Nov. 6.—Declaring that the progressive elements in American politics were divided by Tuesday's election, Representative Victor Murdock, Progressive leader in the House, and defeated candidate for United States Senator, says the next step is the breakin gof the "Solid South" and an alignment that will bring progressive elements of all parties together.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

SENTIMENT WELL IMPRESSED

Re-Opening of Liverpool Cotton Market Affects New York Exchange to Talk Around Ring.

New York, Nov. 7.—There was a large attendance at the cotton exchange today and the talk around the floor indicated that the action of the Liverpool market since the re-opening for restricted business yesterday had made a favorable impression on sentiment. The British spot market was two points higher at 4.66d and expectations of an improving export demand were encouraged by reports that Russia had established special credits here which would be used largely for the purchase of cotton. There were also reports from the United States embassy at Berlin indicating that available supplies of cotton at Bremen were practically exhausted and that prices ranged around 15 to 18 cents for old crop with 12 cents or better offered for new crop cotton. December contracts here sold around 7.55 to 7.60 on the curb and local spot brokers said their offers from the South indicated continued firmness in the interior.

Practically all necessary signatures are now said to have been obtained to the corporation-syndicate agreements and it was reported on the floor that whatever action might be taken by the courts with reference to the Pell cotton, there would be no interference with the plans for re-opening the exchange which has not been officially announced, but is expected on November 16th for trading in both old and new style contracts. Today's port receipts were 46,601 bales. Exports 28,962, and stock 844,949. Interior receipts were 29,703.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

Staple Held a Steadier Tone for the Week-end—Prices Advances

New Orleans, Nov. 7.—Cotton held a steady tone on the week-end, January closing at 7:60 bid. Not much business done, more because of scanty offerings than anything else.

A sustaining influence was the advance in Dallas to 7 cents for middling. Exports of approximately 25,000 bales from Galveston excited some comment as did the week's sales in Liverpool 55,000 bales against 66,000 this week's last year and 59,000 this week two years ago.

Weather conditions over the cotton region were exceptionally favorable which brought forth fresh predictions regarding the pending bureau report on ginning.

The new style of cotton contract, conforming to favorable laws recently passed, went into effect today in the local market through the posting of new rules on the exchange by the board of directors.

DRYGOODS VALUES IMPROVE

Steadier Tone in Raw Cotton and Improvement in Financial Matters Aid the Market.

New York, Nov. 7.—The steadier tone in raw cotton and the slowly improving financial conditions affecting trade have caused a further spread of confidence in cotton goods values. The dye stuffs difficulty is figuring more prominently every week in delaying the revision in prices on colored cottons of the heavier grades, as well as expected revisions in prints, ginghams and other staple cotton fabrics.

In several directions colored goods lines have been withdrawn from the markets until the dye stuff supply becomes more certain. There has been a larger business done on gray cloths for converting, and in brown sheetings of some grades. Sales of 3,000 bales of sheetings to Red Sea ports have helped to instill confidence in the ultimate return of a satisfactory business from that quarter.

Print cloths 28 inch 64x64s 3c; 64x60s, 2 3-4; 38 1-2 inch 64x64s, 4 and 4 1-2; brown sheetings, Southern standards 7; denims 9 ounce 13 1-2; tickings 8 ounce 13; standard prints 5 1-4; staple ginghams 6 1-4; dress ginghams 9 1-4.

CLEARING HOUSE CONDITIONS.

SUFFERED TWENTY-ONE YEARS ---FINALLY FOUND RELIEF

Having suffered for twenty-one years with a pain in my side, I finally have found relief in Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. Injections of morphine were my only relief for short periods of time. I became so sick that I had to undergo a surgical operation in New Orleans, which benefited me for two years. When the same pain came back one day I was so sick that I gave up hopes of living. A friend advised me to try your Swamp-Root and I at once commenced using it. The first bottle did me so much good that I purchased two more bottles. I am now on my second bottle and am feeling like a new woman. I passed a gravel stone as large as a big red bean and several small ones. I have not had the least feeling of pain since taking your Swamp-Root and I feel it my duty to recommend this great medicine to all suffering humanity. Gratefully yours,

MRS. JOSEPH CONSTANCE,
Rapides Par. Echo, La.

Personally appeared before me, this 15th day of July, 1911, Mrs. Joseph Constance, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

WM. MORROW, Notary Public.

MANY SPEAKERS HEARD BY PURITY CONGRESS

"Undesirable Fatherhood is a Menace to Country,"

Dr. James Russell Price Thinks More Danger Than Undesirable Citizenship—Education is Essential to Morals.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 7.—"Undesirable fatherhood is a greater menace to this country than undesirable citizenship," declared Dr. James Russell Price, of Chicago, before the International Purity Congress here today.

"The tendency of the age," he continued, "is to magnify motherhood and to minimize fatherhood. Yet it is well understood that offspring take their characteristics from the male parent."

Education is the crying need of the hour in respect to the whole sex question, according to Prof. Thomas W. Galloway, of James Milliken University, Decatur, Ill., who spoke before the International Purety committee here today. He said that education was the only preventive of unchastity for which law, reform movements against prostitution, campaigns against social diseases and efforts to obtain living wages were merly palliatives.

Rev. Henry Frank Gaines, of Agnes Scott College, of Decatur, Ala., placed the greatest responsibility for the regeneration of the human race on the shoulders of the women.

"Unquestionably, in the cause and effect of the social evil, woman is the great sufferer and she can do much to prevent it," he said. "She can do just as much in instructing her daughter in social hygiene and in controlling the dress of her daughter.

"It is a wonder to me that mothers do not rise in rebellion against fashions that decree immodesty in dress. The theatre, the dance, all should come under the control of woman. Until women learn to take this responsibility we will not succeed in preventing social evils."

PENDER COUNTY VOTED AGAINST AMENDMENTS

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Burgaw, N. C., Nov. 7.—It has been a difficult matter to get the results of the election in Pender county. The canvassing board met Thursday but did not finish their work on account of the fact that two townships failed to send in any report of the vote on the salary question. This was the proposition to put the county officers on salary, and with the returns in, the salary carried by three majority.

It is said that one of the townships still to be heard from gave a majority for salary. Should this prove true, the county officers will go on a salary basis the first of December.

The amendments were defeated by majorities ranging from 164 against the Fifth to 351 against the Seventh. The Second amendment had the next largest majority against it.

All of the Democratic county candidates were elected by majorities ranging between 400 and 500. There was a light vote polled, and a very than 200 voters who did not vote either for or against the amendments, while voting for officers. The Republicans polled about 200 votes in the county.

DUPLIN AGAINST ALL.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Warsaw, N. C., Nov. 7.—The official count of the vote on the amendments in Duplin county were made known today: No. 1, for, 511 against 1,611; No. 2, for 387, against 1,741; No. 3, for 416, against 1,699; No. 4, for 482, against 1,634; No. 5, for 417, against 1,699; No. 6, for 392, against 1,701; No. 7, for 320, against 1,797; No. 8, for 402, against 1,699; No. 9, for 402, against, 1,702; No. 10, for 369, against 1,750.

Surprise is shown that this county is so largely against the tax amendment. It played an important part in the defeat of all.

Of Shipping Interest.
